RAID DEAD STREW LONDON

LONDON, Oct. 25 (AP) — Bombs rained out of a cloud-flecked sky in one of the heaviest series of daytime raids on London today, smashing street cars and buses during the morning rush hour, and leaving crowded thoroughfares strewn with dead, injured and ruins.

One bomb crashed between two street cars, wrecking them and killing and injuring more than a score of persons. Other explosives hit behind the street cars, damaging a third street car. Nearby buses were wrecked.

In Berlin the high command announced today that Italian planes for the first time have joined German raiders in operations against England.

The Italians started from bases in "occupied territory in the framework of the German air force's fighting operations" against the British, a communique said, adding:

"Through well aimed bombs they scored great success against port facilities in the east of the British Isles."

Heavy formations, some of them numbering 100 planes, came over in the day's attacks on the capital.

High explosives struck near a police station, wrecking nearby structures, and near an air raid shelter, leaving many injured in the street.

MANY PERSONS DEAD

Flats and shops were demolished and huge buildings were jarred by the blasts.

Associated Press correspondents telephoned from various parts of the city that bombs were falling nearby as the raiders maneuvered skillfully in a sunlit sky scattered with clouds.

The air ministry said 12 German planes were destroyed in the day's battles, while eight British fighters were lost, the pilots of four landing safely.

Berlin claimed 14 British fighters downed and only four Nazi planes lost.—Editor's note.

The virtually incessant day raids came on the heels of night attacks.

Traffic noises were drowned out by the roar of exploding bombs and the hollow rumble of anti-aircraft guns blending with full-throttled airplane motors.

Reports from widely scattered areas indicated the attacks spread from one end of London to the other, with many deaths.

One stick of bombs dropped dur-

WILLKIE TO ANSWER F.D. TALKS

ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN EN ROUTE TO WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 25 (AP)—Wendell Willkie served notice today that he would reply to any "political speeches" by President Roosevelt within 48 hours of their delivery.

The Republican presidential nominee made the announcement as his campaign train turned back east from Akron, O., where, he said, last night that he sought to end "this era of bad feeling" between industry and labor.

The exact time of the replies will depend on availablity of radio hookups. It was not disclosed whether they would be made to crowds at scheduled stops or whether Willkie would follow the procedure he used yesterday in discussing Mr. Roosevelt's Philadelphia speech from his private car

12,000 HEAR TALK

Speaking this morning in Jamestown, N. Y., before a crowd estimated at 12,000, Willkie said:

"This is the campaign of 1940 and not the campaign of either 1932 or 1936. This is likewise an American campaign in which we are primarily interested in American pursuits."

Willkie said he wanted to repeat a question he previously had asked President Roosevelt:

"Since he has refrained from any statement of his belief about a third term for any President, I would like to know what he thinks about a fourth term. I wish he also would discuss with us his views on a fifth term."

If the President contends that a

U. S. Warns France Against Axis Tie; May Take Colonies

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (INS)—The United States, a well-informed diplomatic source said today, has given the Vichy government of France a pointed warning not to expect American aid in case of famine if it makes an alliance with, or other arrangements helpful to, the cause of Adolf Hitler's Third Reich.

This warning was conveyed through diplomatic channels, it was said, as Marshal Henri Philippe Petain and his pro-Nazi vice-premier, Piere Laval, negotiated with Hitler regarding a new role for defeated France in the European political and military drama. Reports from Europe state that Berlin wants France's navy and naval bases.

Meanwhile, the United States and other Pan-American nations were ready to act quickly in establishing custody over French possessions in the New World if there is any indication that Vichy plans to turn them over to Germany.

READY TO TAKE OVER

The Pan-American Union announced last night that the inter-American emergency committee to administer European colonies—a body whose organization was agreed upon at the Havana conference of foreign ministers last July—is fully completed and ready to function.

The Havana protocols provided that the committee would become operative as soon as two-thirds of the 21 Pan-American nations—14—had appointed their members.

The committee was completed when Ecuador announced the appointment of its ambassador to this country, Capt. Colon Eloy Alfaro, to the group. Previously 13

Jap Sub Sinks, Scores Drown

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—Twelve officers, 38 warrant officers and an undisclosed number of seamen perished when the Japanese submarine I-67 was lost in maneuvers south of Tokyo bay on Aug. 29, the Japanese navy ministry announced today in a communique broadcast by Domei, Japanese news agency.

The communique said the I-67 disappeared during a heavy storm and an intensive search over a radius of 100 miles from where she was last seen failed to "yield any hope of locating and rescuing the crew of the ill-fated warship."

"The search continues, however," it added.

TWO WOMEN DIE IN MAINE HOTEL BLAZE, 30 SAVED

AUBURN, Me., Oct. 25—Two women, one a young wife who had registered under an assumed name, perished today in a fire that raged through the Hotel Whitehall here and trapped more than 30 other persons in smoke-filled rooms.

One of the women had registered, police reported, as Mrs. S. A. McHugh, of Boston, a frequent guest at the hotel who had checked in at 12:40 a. m., three hours before the flames broke out.

She was later identified by her parents, Mr. an dMrsr. Robin Dow of Auburn, as their daughter, Mrs. Marion Poulin, 26, of Biddeford, Me. They could not explain her use of a false name.

The other victim was Miss Grace Hayes, 70, of Auburn, a permanent resident at the hotel.

FALLS INTO FLAMES

Mrs. Fannie B. Carey of Gorham, Me., at first listed as missing and reported dead, was later found safe.

Firemen said they saw Mrs. Poulin at a sixth-floor window of the hotel, but before their ladder could reach her she had fallen back into the raging flames and they could not find her.

Auburn firemen called help from Lewiston, but fire officials said the blaze was out of control for three hours. Two hours after the fire was discovered it had broken from the cellar out through the roof of the brick and stucco building.

Others who were in the hotel and escaped included: Edward E. Beals, Brockton; H. P. Mudge, Salem; R. B. Peckham, Quincy; A. M. Collins, Boston; Samuel Blockwood, Boston; E. S. Godfred, Boston; Percy Conwell, Brookline; J. Frank Ryder, Wakefield; O. W. Parker, Wakefield, and P. A. Sanborn, Beach Bluffs.

Thick smoke from the burning building swirled down over the streets, obscuring the lights under which firemen were working.

HE GIVES ALARM

Neal Gibbs, night clerk in the seven-story hotel in the center of the business section, said his first warning of the fire was when he heard the crackle of flames in the cellar.

He sounded the alarm, he said, and ran through the building—already quickly filling with smoke—to warn the guests.

Only about 30 of the 74 registered persons in the hotel were able to escape by themselves.

Those left trapped in the building ran higher and higher as the flames pursued them.

Auburn firemen got about 30 men, women and children down aerial ladders.

Custer L. Frost, proprietor of the hotel, said the damage was about $75,000.

Mr. and Mrs. William Searles of Boston and their two-year-old daughter, Mary, escaped down a stairway from the fifth floor.

"I was awakened by the coughing of my daughter," Mrs. Searles related. "The room was filled with smoke.

"It was so thick I was afraid we would be unable to get out. My husband and I poured water from a washstand on some handkerchiefs and placed them over the baby's face.

"We picked her up and managed to get through the smoke and down the stairs just in time."

LOVE'S TRAGEDY — When the parents of Evelyn Hartstein, 22, (above) of Pittsburgh rejected Louis Kleinberg as a prospective son-in-law, the 30-year-old man shot and killed her mother, wounded her father. Police say he confessed.

Storm Delays Kennedy's Hop

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—The Atlantic Clipper, which is carrying U. S. Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy home from England, today was ordered held at Horta, the Azores, overnight because of a severe tropical storm over the Atlantic.

The order was issued by Pan American Airways after the Clipper left Lisbon.

Names of approximately 350,000 Massachusetts ' draft registrants, with the serial numbers chance allotted to each, have been posted, Selective Service headquarters announced today.

With the list of permanent addresses for local draft boards published today, it is now a simple matter for a registrant to determine his serial number.

"All a man has to do is to go to his local board headquarters and look at the list," Maj. David B. Weden of the state offices pointed out.

Huge Nazi Spy Ring In U. S. Bared By Dies

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1940, by International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25—The amazing Dies committee case against Nazi propagandists, now in the hands of a federal grand jury in Washington, will link German embassy and consular officials to activities which this government regards as an abuse of diplomatic privileges, International News Service was informed today.

Because of the diplomatic dynamite which the evidence contains, this government, it was learned, decided on grand jury procedure as the best method to avoid a severe strain on U. S.-German relations while serving firm notice on Berlin through non-diplomatic channels that "Trojan horse" practices will not be tolerated.

Specifically the grand jury inquiry is directed at Dr. Manfred Zapp, head of the German-operated Transocean News Service in America, but actually the investigation encompasses far more than that.

PROBE HUB CONSUL

Included in those under scrutiny is Dr. Herbert Schotz, Nazi consul-general in Boston.

In announcing that the Department of Justice had ordered the investigation, Atty.-Gen. Jackson stated that it would be based on material gathered by G-men and by the Dies committee. Herewith is disclosed what Dies committee agents say their case shows:

That there has been established in this country a fledgling organization for propaganda work and economic penetration which adheres closely to the "Fifth Column" pattern credited with bringing the downfall of Rrance, Norway and Holland.

That operating intimately with his organization is practically every member of the embassy staff in Washington from Hans Thomsen, charge d'affaires and Hitler's No. 1 diplomatic representative to the United States, down to attaches, as well as consular officials in New York City, Chicago, Cleveland and San Francisco.

R EPORTED ANTI-GERMANS

That the backbone of the organization is Transocean's New York office whose short wave, cable and radio communications back and forth with Berlin involve a wide variety of subjects such as confidential reports on Americans who are "anti-German," on Americans about to visit Germany, o nAmericans who might be sympathetic to Nazism, and numerous other subjects which appear to be in the mystery category because of the use of code.

There is other evidence giving strong indication that German interests are trying to gain financial footholds in American aviation, railroad and steel corporations, and that there is a constant flow of highly confidential reports being sent out of this country on American production, possibilities for seizing insecure American markets, and the general "inside" economic picture in this and other republics of North and South America.

The case was uncovered by Dies committee agents in New York three months ago, turned over to the State Department because of its serious international implications, and finally carried directly to President Roosevelt by Secretary of State Cordell Hull six weeks ago.

DIPLOMATIC TNT

For a short time, at least, two high State Department officials were actively urging that it be made the basis for a rupture in diplomatic relations with Germany., a fact which "leaked" to the German embassy with the result that three weeks ago, four of the highest officials on the embassy staff rushed down to a Washington bank and withdrew their personal funds in the belief trouble was ahead.

Finally, 10 days ago, decision was reached to turn the entire case over to the Department of Justice, and as of today the government's plant call for this diplomatic TNT to be handled by a federal grand jury on the technicality of whether Zapp his violated the foreign agents registration act of 1938.

The case as built up by the Dies committee, bit by bit, began last July with a raid on Transocean and the seidure of the files of Zapp, a much-traveled gentleman whose activities for Germany have taken him to virtually every corner of the globe.

Letters, cables, short wave communications and reports taken from Zapp s files led Dies investigators to the New York offices of the German railroad's information service, to the German library of information, to the American Fellowship Forum, to "Eildneist Fuer Aussenhandel," the press agency of the German Department of Commerce, headed by Dr. Herbert Gross, and to Ferdinand A. Kertess, a native German industrialist who only a few months ago became a

Lone Hubby, Wives Win Their Divorces

Desertion cases, with one husband among complainants, numbered many of the uncontested divorce petitions heard and granted by Judge John V. Mahoney in Suffolk Probate Court today.

The lone male was Lloyd M. Dunn of Allston, who said his wife, Estelle, now of South Boston, had walked out on him New Year's Day, 1936, because he reproached her for staying out until 2 a. m.

His wife told him, Dunn testified, she was "with a fellow she loved." He later went to her mother's home to plead for her return, he said, because he still loved her. But she wouldn't come back. They have a daughter, Jane, 10.

INEVITABLE PASSES

Ash blond and 25, Clara Sandberg Larsen of Brockton won her decree for desertion, too, and the right to resume her maiden name. Married in August, 1935, she found a note on May 15, 1936, she said, from her spouse, Robert, saying:

"This was inevitable."

Mrs. Emily Purrington Roberts, Boston registered nurse, went to live in Daytona, Fla., with her husband, Nelson, she told the court.

In 1934, she testified, after 11 years of matrimony, he started cutting off the family funds and being "evasive" with her. His sister, said Mrs. Roberts, told her about another woman, and when she asked him about it, he admitted all, packed up and departed.

OTHER DIVORCES

Mrs. Florence G. Sweeten was married June 1, 1913, but in January, 1927, divorced Joseph Sweeten. Then they were remarried in Oct. 1929.

In 1935, she told the court, he began to disappear for spells and finally left.

"He's been around to see me at times," she explained, "but not to live with me again."

She was also granted custody of two minor children.

Mrs. Phyllis M. Miller, auburn-haired and 24, of Anderson st., Beacon Hill, had charges of cruel and abusive treatment to relate, explaining that once her husband beat her because she complained of him kissing a married relative. She also won custody of their son.

ALPHABET MIX IN VOTE SIFT

Atty. Theodore P. Hollis, who insists on designating his detectives by letters, got himself all mixed up in them today at the Boston Election Commission hearing on charges that 128 persons listed as Boston voters do not live at the addresses given.

The charges were brought by Henry J. Allen of Bowdoin st., Dorchester, for whom Hollis, director of registration for the Republican State Committee, is counsel.

Having placed "Mrs. X" and "Mr. Z," operatives of the Burns Detective Agency, on the stand yesterday, Atty. Hollis came through today with "Mr. U" and "Mr. W," and there was quite some laughter.

First off today, Atty. Hollis told the commission that after an examination of the voting list he was satisfied that a number of names against which he has been proceeding are in order and correctly registered.

Other names complained of, he said, have been removed from the voting list by the commission.

There have been two groups of names moved against, 59 in one group and 69 in the other, but Hollis said he guessed he would withdraw the second group without hearing because he is "working on those cases elsewhere."

Democrats at City Hall said this was an old political trick—to move against a few errors in the voting list with the hope of giving the general impression that there was a lot of illegal registration in Boston.

Th next move, these observers predicted, would be an announcement by Hollis that he would have watchers at the polls to pounce upon illegal voters.

Anyway, Atty. Hollis called "Mr. U" then, a middle-aged man with glasses, who said he has been with the Burns organization since 1911.

He testified he investigated three names and found two, both registered from the same apartment house, were not known to the custodian.

He said the custodian told him, but when cross-examined by the Republican member of the commission, Frederic E. Dowling, "Mr. U" admitted he did not know the name of the custodian and had no knowledge that the man was the custodian except by his own say-so.

Then Hollis called "Mr. W," but he called him "Mr. U." and when the laughter had subsided, "Mr. W." testified he had been a Burns detective only one month. He investigated a name, he said, and found the party was not known at the address given.

Cross-examined by Dowling, both "Mr. U" and "Mr. W" admitted that many names they had investigated proved to be in good order.

Atty Hollis hastened to tell the commission that this was so and to explain that he had chosen the names at random.

Then the commission adjourned until 10 a. m., Monday.

COP HELD IN SLAYING OF HOTEL HOSTESS

SALISBURY BEACH, Oct. 25—A Salisbury special policeman, married and the father of two small children, was charged today with the murder of Mrs .Olive Farrell, hotel co-owner and hostess, six hours after her partially clad body had been found here in the surf.

The charge was lodged formally against John Henry, 45, of Elm st., summertime policeman and wintertime oil truck driver, following a report on an autopsy performed by Medical Examiner Frederick W. Snow and Dr. Alan Moritz of Boston, Harvard pathologist.

Although the autopsy report was turned directly over to Dist.-Atty. Hugh A. Cregg, police said they understood some of the findings contradicted a story told by Henry and that the cause of Mrs. Farrell's death was drowning.

WAITRESS QUIZZED

Police said Henry had admitted being with the 45-year-old hostess until early this morning, after a night of drinking, slapping her face in an endeavor to sober her and persuade her to go home and then becoming panic-stricken when she collapsed.

Henry declared, police said, that he dargged the supposed dead woman to the beach but that he had not put her in the water.

In announcing the placing of a formal murder charge against the special officer, Lieut. Detective Richard Griffin of the state police said Henry would be arraigned tomorrow in Newburyport.

Among witnesses questioned prior to booking the charge was Miss Peggy Tyrie, 27-year-old waitress at the hotel.

QUARRELS RECALLED

According to Police Chief Harold Congdon, the waitress, believed to have been the last person to have seen Mrs. Farrell alive—with the exception of the accused—said she had been with Mrs. Farrell in several cafes during Friday evening, and that Mrs. Farrell had been in earlier quarrels at some.

Henry, police said, is a veteran who for weeks during the World War was given up for lost in the torpedoing of a troop transport off the Irish coast in which many soldiers were drowned.

The body of Mrs. Farrell, clad only in a torn dress, was found awash in the surf 35 feet out from the beach at dawn.

There were bruises and cuts about the mouth, police said after they recovered the body, discovered after two cruising officers had detected torn pieces of undergarments near the beach.

It was found, following the trail of torn underwear, pieces of corset and shreds of ribbon, as well as a clearly defined trail through long grass and soft sand, that the body had been dragged to the water from a point in Central ave., three blocks distant.

Her low shoes were also found along this trail and police said they believe the clothing was shredded and the shoes wrenched off while she was being dragged.

Mrs. Farrell was well known to thousands of summer vacationists who met her during the 12 years she had worked and lived in Lucian's Hotel, Broadway, fronting on the beach.

She was last seen alive about 2 a. m., when several residents reported hearing her and a man companion in a noisy argument in Central ave., which is not far from the spot where police later found her undergarments.

Clad in a red dress, her body was found only 600 yards from the section of beach where Stella Kale was found murdered in June, 1927. For that murder Walter Taylor, the "Dancing Barber," was electrocuted at the death house in Charlestown State Prison.

Teachers Told Child's Individuality Vital

More than 1200 teachers attending the 86th annual convention of the Middlesex County Teachers' Ass'n today were instructed by Mary Ellen Chase, Smith College professor and well-known writer, to do their bit for democracy by "paying more attention to the child's mind and less to his lesson."

"These are days," she told full-house audiences at Symphony Hall and the Boston Opera House, "we must devote ourselves to the individual, for never before has the individual been so hard-pressed.

"You may have departed a long way from the convictions of your forefathers but remember they, at least had convictions.

"The most stupid youngster in your class deserves respect. Treat him as an individual and not as part of the class. Remember, that's what is causing much of the trouble in the world today."

The over-flow attendance made it necessary for co-chairmen Charles E. Varney of Stoneham and Willis B. Gifford of Concord to engage both the Opera House and Symphony Hall.

Dr. Daniel L. Marsh, president of Boston University, said:

"Democracy is at a disadvantage because a dictatorship demands one's loyalty. That is the difference between a democracy and a totalitarian state. Democracy asks beliefs in ideals. Dictatorship demands duty. America should have an intelligent appreciation of the solid attainments of its national character."

Business meetings were held at which greetings from the Massachusetts Teachers Foundation were read.

Other speakers included Dr. Allen A. Stockdale of the National Association of Manufacturers and Willis Gifford, principal of Concord high school.

Two Roxbury Sisters Vanish

Two Roxbury sisters—one a petite blonde and the other a brunette—were reported missing today from the home, where their mother lies ill.

William H. Proctor, uncle of Betty Phalen, 16, and Margaret, 14, reported to Roxbury police that the girls left their Dean st. home to attend classes at Roxbury Memorial High School last Tuesday and have not been seen since. Their mother, is Mrs. Evelyn Phalen.

Both girls are sophomores at the school. Both wore red plaid reversible coats when they left their home. Betty, a blonde, is five feet two inches tall, weighs 102 pounds. Margaret, a brunette, is five feet three inches tall, weighs 129 pounds.

MAN TELLS HOW HE SLEW BOY

CINCINNATI, Oct. 25 (AP)—A 27-year-old dishwasher went to mass today, then with a butcher knife killed a 10-year-old boy in Holy Name School, Police Maj. Edgar Hartman reported.

Surrendering at police headquarters, the man was quoted by Hartman as saying:

"I killed him; I've had a desire to kill someone since last October.

No charges were filed immediately. The school is part of the church where the suspect attended mass.

Clarence Stevens, third-grade pupil was spinning a top in the school basement when he was seized and dragged, screaming into a storeroom. He was stabbed and his throat slashed. One of six children, his mother died a year ago. His father is a printing firm employe.

Maj. Hartman said the man walked up to him, calmly announced:

"I've just killed a boy in Holy Name School," and added, "I stabbed him."

In the school storeroom police found the boy's body—under it a butcher knife.

Hartman identified the suspect as Guy Willie Ponder, a former dishwasher at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music.

F. D. WON'T RESIGN IF HE WINS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (AP)—President Roosevelt told his press conference today he intended to serve out the whole four years if he is elected to a third term.

The President made the statement in reply to a reporter's question concerning his speech in Philadelphia Wednesday night in which the President said his objective in the next four years would be to make work for every young man and woman "a living fact."

The reporter asked.

"Does this mean that, God willing, you intend to serve the full four-year term if re-elected?"

"Of course," Mr. Roosevelt responded with a smile.

He then volunteered that the newsman could quote him directly on that, and added he was glad the reporter had put in "God willing."

The question put to the President was prompted by a persistent rumor that has been going the rounds in the captital and elsewhere that he planned, if re-elected, to resign in favor of his running-mate, Henry A. Wallace. —Editor's note.

WATCHES 4 DANGER ZONES

The President, in response to further questioning, repeated that as long as the international situation continues as it is at present, he would not go more than 12 hours away from Washington to campaign.

He would not comment on the international situation either in Europe or the Far East, however.

While the President talked to reporters, it was learned authoritatively he was watching closely these days four different situations —Spain, disposition of the French fleet, Greece and the Balkans, and the Far East.

All four of these questions it was said, involved possibilities of trouble.

It was said officially that while these questions did not mean involvement of this country in any way, they might require such presidential actions as have been taken in the past following other serious developments—namely, issuance of proclamations getting Americans out of trouble zones and freezing of investments held in this country by certain foreign interests.

DENIES KENNEDY RESIGNING

The President was asked whether he considered the French government at Vichy still a friendly power in the light of recent conversations between Premier Petain and Hitler.

The President replied certainly, adding that this country still had diplomatic relations with the Petain government.

When the reporter remarked the United States also still maintained diplomatic relations with Germany, Mr. Roosevelt replied that was right.

The President said the situation regarding Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to London, en route home, was the same as a few days ago when he remarked the ambassador was returning to report and that it was untrue that Kennedy was resigning.

Raffertys Feted On 40th Bridal Day

More than 100 friends and relatives attended the 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Rafferty of Harris ave., Jamaica Plain, held in American Legion bungalow, South st., Jamaica Plain, last night.

Three daughters and nine grandchildren were present. The couple were presented with a huge bouquet of new bills of various denominations.

Mr. and Mrs. Rafferty have resided in Jamaica Plain since their marriage in Holy Cross Cathedral, South End.

VICHY, France, Oct. 25 (AP)—Fernand Sabatte, 66, French painter and head professor of the National Beaux Arts School, was killed last night in an automobile collision at Meaux, near Paris, dispatches received here said today.

DRAFTEES MAY HAVE TO DON OLD BLOUSES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (INS)- Some of the first conscripts called into federal service by the national draft lottery next Tuesday may be forced to wear old-fashioned, high-collared blouses because of a shortage of complete Army uniforms, it was learned today.

With all of the activity at draft headquarters, it was learned that the War Dept. was having difficulty in getting deliveries on new Army coats in time to supply the forthcoming draft army .

Deliveries on shirts, breeches, overcoats and other apparel were reported on schedule, but there was a definite shortage of what the Army calls "blouses" and what would be known in civilian life as suit coats.

Because deliveries are slow it was said, some of the old stiff-neck blouses which have been in storehouses for 10 years may be taken out of moth-balls and given to some of the conscripts.

According to Army sources, volume deliveries of the new type blouses may start in January.

Woman's Jury Knits Tie for His Honor

CHICAGO, Oct. 25 (AP)—A jury of eight women and four men, presided over by Federal Judge J. Earl Major, knitted with a vengeance and in red, both representing two weeks' vacation.

The foreman explained the knitting was merely killing time while sitting with a case. Each juror took a turn at the knitting to pass the time.

GIRLS FILL DRAFTEE CAPSULES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (AP)—An "assembly line" goes into operation today at National Selective Service headquarters to fill thousands of capsules with the draft numbers which will be drawn in Tuesday's national lottery.

A system of loading the capsules has been contrived that will be triple checked all the way through in effort to avoid any repetition of what happened in 1917 when an empty capsule was drawn in the first World War draft lottery.

Four girls will make up a capsule-filling crew. Several crews will work in shifts at the long and tedious job. Officials estimate that it will take 36 hours to load the non-transparent, blue capsules.

The filled capsules will be placed in a large box, which will be sealed and kept under lock until they are dumped into the big glass crock in the Interdepartmental Auditorium for the drawing Tuesday.

A maximum of 8500 numbers will be used. That will be enough, officials said, to cover the serial numbers of the registrants in any one local draft board area, with 1000 extras for errors and late registrations. Boards which have more than 7500 registrants will be split.

Filling of the capsules is scheduled to start at 3 p. m. today, with cameras clicking.

350,000 Draft Names Posted

000 names to be serialized, there are bound to be some disappointed, but we can assure them this work will be completed very soon.

BOSTON BOARDS

All but seven of the 120 local boards have officially informed the Selective Service headquarters that they have posted their lists.

Of these 120, 61 have forwarded to state headquarters the copies of the lists of names and addresses of their registrants, with each man's serial number.

Boston's 27 district boards, many of whom had been slow in organizing, reported that they were catching up rapidly, although only four had filed their lists of names and serial numbers with the state officials.

These four are: No. 23, Roxbury, No. 27, Dorchester; No. 35, Jamaica Plain, and No. 38, Brighton.

DRAWING TUESDAY

Seven civilian inspectors from the state headquarters are in the field, Maj. Weden reported, and are ironing out difficulties that have slowed up some of the local boards.

With the volume of mail being received, the state board was confident that it would be able to report completion of the work of serializing each registrant well in advance of the national drawing.

The drawing in which each man will receive an order number, will be at Washington, next Tuesday.

Motorist Is Held In Death of Boy, 5

An elderly motorist was being held today in connection with the death of a little South Boston boy, killed when his tricycle was struck by an auto.

Arrested on a manslaughter charge was Richard Crook, 62, of School st., Watertown, whose car struck Thomas Donovan, 5, of M st.

Farmer 8 Days Late on Draft

ALBION, N. Y., Oct. 25 (AP)—Just eight days late, a 27-year-old Middleport farmer signed up for the draft yesterday, telling Orleans County draft board officials he'd just heard of conscription.

Mayor Jacob Landauer, board chairman, said Walter Herman Woodrich told him he worked for his father on a farm and did not have a newspaper, radio or telephone. He said a neighbor told him yesterday he should register.

Jail Made Him Draft Dodger

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25 (INS) California's first man to defy the draft, John J. Zuziak, 31-year-old ex-seaman and ex-convict, was indicted by a federal grand jury for refusing to register for conscription.

Zuziak said that while serving a five year San Quentin prison sentence for robbery, he learned much about war activities.

"I'm not going to be any guinea pig for the British," he said. "I had a lot of time to read in stir and I got wised up on what is going on. I don't like this high pressure way of raising an army."

U.S. GETS CAROL'S APPEAL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (AP)—Former King Carol of Rumania appealed to the United States government today to intercede in behalf of himself and members of his party now held under detention in Seville, Spain.

The king's request was transmitted to the State Department by the American legation in Lisbon, Portugal, after Jean Pangal, former Rumanian minister to Portugal, had asked the legation to forward the appeal to President Roosevelt.

State Department officials had no immediate comment to make on the request, or on what action, if any, this government might take.

Carol, his friend, Madam Magda Lupescu, and Ernst Urdareanu, former minister of the palace in Bucharest, were placed under virtual arrest Tuesday and are under guard at their hotel in Seville.

Egg-Hurler's Trial Rocked By Sneezes

CHICAGO, Oct. 25 (AP)—A handful of sneeze powder completely upset the South State st. court decorum today when the case of Curtis Mulrain, 45, who allegedly egged Mr. and Mrs. Wendell L. Willkie Tuesday night, was called.

When one defendant the complainant, and Judge Harold M. Ward, the reporters present and spectators stopped sneezing, Mulrain caught Magistrate Ward off guard by pleading guilty and asking to change his plea to a jury trial. Ward denied the request and set Nov. 12 as the date.

Mulrain obtained a continuance until Nov. 12 so as to be after the election.

TERRIBLY SORRY NOW

He said he wanted time enough to obtain witnesses to prove I was intoxicated, and that he wanted to obtain lawyers.

"I am terribly sorry about the incident," he said. "It was all done in the spirit of the moment."

Willkie, the Republican candidate, was struck on the left temple by an egg just before his train departed from the La Salle st. station and one or more eggs struck Mrs. Willkie in the back, soiling her coat.

Seized by police, Mulrain was accused in complaints by Republican State Senator Arthur J. Bidwill who was represented today by Edward Casey, a former municipal court judge.

JUST 'BOYISH PRANK'

"In behalf of the Republican party," Casey said, "we want to be magnanimous in this matter. Mr. Willkie also is magnanimous and we agree the defendant should have some time to prepare his case."

"I'd do anything in the world to right this thing," Mulrain replied. "I think as much of Mr. Willkie as anybody. It was just a boyish prank."

"All of us may not agree with what Mr. Willkie says," said Judge O'Connell, having ceased sneezing, "but we must defend his right to say it."

"The trouble with the whole thing," said Bidwill, "was that it gave Chicago a black eye."

Jail for Youth Who Thought of Egging

AKRON, O., Oct. 25 (AP)—"That is not the American way," observed Judge Claude V. Emmons today as he imposed a 30-day workhouse sentence and $50 fine on Robert Sola, 18.

Armed with eggs Sola went to Goodyear hall last night to hear Wendell L. Wilkie, Republican presidential nominee. But suspicious police, concealed on the platform, prevented him from hurling the eggs at Willkie.

"After I saw Willkie, I was sorry I had even thought about it," Sola told the judge. Stories of egg attacks elsewhere led to his action, Sola said.

War Vets Offer Egg Guard for Willkie

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—Five hundred World War veterans and members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars today volunteered to act as bodyguards for any Republican candidate for President who visits their city tomorrow.

"We'll see to it that it can't happen in Queens," said Frederick C. Sasse, chairman of the group.

41 Named To Draft Board Vacancies

To fill vacancies on state selective service boards caused by resignations, removals and deaths, Governor Saltonstall announced today a list of 41 nominations he has submitted to Washington.

Judge Nelson Brown of the Superior Court, who headed the southern section of the Middlesex County area, was moved up to head that board in place of Chief Justice Fred T. Field of the Supreme Court.

Chief Justice Field and Justices James J. Ronan and Stanley E. Qua, had resigned from their draft posts because of a state constitutional provision that forbade them serving.

To fill Judge Brown's previous post, Judge Francis J. Good of Superior Court was named.

Judge Jesse W. Morton of Superior Court was chosen to head the northern Middlesex board in place of Justice Qua. District Court Judge John E. Fenton of Lawrence was given Justice Ronan's former post as chief of the Essex County area board.

When the question of Supreme Court justices serving came up, it also raised the point of Superior Court justices in similar posts, but the Supreme Court ruled the latter could.

Francis X. McLaughlin was named to replace Judge Timothy J. Ahern of Roxbury court on the Ward 9 board.

In Fall River, Frank X. Perron replaced Anthony S. Ventura who resigned after war veterans' organizations had protested he had been known to give a Fascist salute on one public occasion.

Gregory to Command Tanker Kaskaskia

Commdr. J. W. Gregory, formerly of the Ninth Naval District intelligence bureau at Chicago, reported at the Boston Navy Yard today for duty as the new commanding officer of the U. S. S. Kaskaskia, to be commissioned in the service of the United States Navy in the near future.

DUNN POLL GIVES 356 TO WILLKIE

NEW YORK, Oct. 25—In a forecast made public today, the Dunn Survey declared that Wendell L. Willkie, Republican nominee, will win the presidential election with 356 electoral votes from 28 states.

This is 90 electoral votes more than the 266 necessary for a majority.

The Dunn Survey indicated Willkie will carry California, with its 22 electoral votes, by no less than 52 per cent of the total vote cast for President.

Should the Willkie trend continue, the survey states, Willkie will receive 55 per cent or more of the California vote.

In addition to California, other major states which will give their electoral votes to Willkie, according to the survey are

New York, with 47; Pennsylvania, 36; Illinois, 29; Ohio, 26; Michigan, 19; Massachusetts, 17; New Jersey, 16; Missouri, 15; Indiana, 14; Wisconsin, 12; Minnesota and Iowa, 11 each, and Kansas, 9.

Reported by the survey as "incomplete" are 14 states with 118 electoral votes, and it is pointed out that Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina, with a total of 59 votes in the "Solid South," have not been studied.

Meanwhile a newspaper poll in New York State, being conducted by the Daily News, gives Willkie a lead thus far over the native son President Roosevelt.

With 28,074 ballots from many parts of the state counted, Willkie has 14,194 as against Roosevelt's 13,880.

The President's nearest neighbors in Duchess County are apparently still none too strong for him, the returns thus far indicating that the good neighbor policy will net Roosevelt only a 12-to-11 break in that area.

WILLKIE GAINS

Four years ago Roosevelt's own town of Hyde Park went for Alfred M. Landon by 1330 votes to 1051 for Roosevelt. Eight years ago Hoover beat Roosevelt in Hyde Park by 917 to 874.

In another poll, this one part of a national survey, New York State was shown to be still in the Roosevelt column but by a reducing majority.

With Willkie gaining a full percentage point, the race has tightened up, this survey revealed, with the ratio now only 51 to 49 for Roosevelt, as against 52 to 48 a week ago.

WHEAT CONTROL PLANNED

LONDON, Oct. 25 (AP)—A Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from Melbourne, Australia, today said the Australian wheat conference had agreed upon a stabilization plan under which the commonwealth and state governments would acquire or take control of all wheat grown.

Willkie Will Speed Replies to President

foreign crisis requires his continued stay in office, Willkie added, he should remember that there were acute foreign problems when George Washington retired.

Willkie said that President Roosevelt told Congress last June 'go home, go home,' there is no need of you staying here because I can handle the international situation.

RAPS TINKERING BOYS

"Did you hear him say, 'You must stay in session to appropriate money for the defense of America?'" the nominee asked. "He said, 'Go home, go home.' And yet if Congress had not stayed in session there wouldn't be a dollar appropriated for that defense program today."

"I don't want to live in the dead past—I want to live in an alive America of today and tomorrow."

The candidate argued that "tinkering boys down in Washington" had hampered recovery.

"We can develop an expanding America where there will be an absolute shortage of persons to fill the jobs," he added.

Willkie [illegible] a full itinerary for the closing period of the campaign. On today's program were other speeches at Elmira and Binghamton, N. Y., and Scranton and Wilkes Barre, Pa.

He will go back to New York City tomorrow, appearing at the World's Fair and the Fordham-St. Mary's football game in the afternoon. In the evening he will make three talks in Queens.

THREE SPECHES

Next week he will visit Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, West Virginia, Maryland, New Jersey and Delaware, with evening speeches at Louisville Monday, Charleston, W. Va., Tuesday, Baltimore, Wednesday, and Camden, N. J., Thursday. His schedule from that point to election day has not been announced.

Willkie's campaign last night in Akron, where he was a lawyer in the 20's included talks in three auditoriums. Two were composed largely of reminiscences, while the third was a prepared address discussing collective bargaining.

"The New Deal," he said, has a 'revolutionary' concept of collective bargaining. Actually, he declared, that system should bring about understanding and cooperation between employer and employe.

"The New Deal has created bad blood between certain groups in industry and certain groups in labor," he continued. "With the help of the leaders, both of labor and industry, I want to put an end to this era of bad feeling. I want to unify the spirit of America."

Governorship Battle Reaches Faster Pace

The gubernatorial campaign stepped up its pace today with the two candidates smashing at specific points in a long range duel which echoed throughout the State.

The offensive was again assumed by Atty.-Gen. Paul A. Dever, Democratic aspirant, who told audiences in Pittsfield, North Adams and Adams that Gov. Saltonstall's administration is "devoid of moral responsibility to the people—unfulfilled promises—inaction—failure."

He reiterated charges that the chief executive had spurned Chapter 90 providing for highway construction with combined federal, state and local funds, and termed the Saltonstall budget "a glaring example of unbusinesslike administration."

GOVERNOR FIGHTS BACK

In speeches to five Worcester County audiences, Gov. Saltonstall charged the state government two years ago was rife with waste, extravagance and inefficiency and declared that under his administration "good, clean, decent, honest government" has been restored on Beacon Hill.

The Chief Executive cited civil service reform, reorganization of the Department of Public Works and the Unemployment Compensation Commission, closer supervision of automobile insurance companies and elimination of the "pardon and parol racket."

SEN. WALSH SPEAKS

Crowds at the Democratic rallies were also told by U. S. Senator Walsh, running for re-election, of his part in having the new army air base located in Chicopee, of his gaining extensive PWA grants for the state, and of the appropriation he obtained for timber salvage after the hurricane.

His opponent, Henry Parkman, Jr., invaded Sen. Walsh's home town of Clinton, accusing the senator of espousing a policy of appeasement dangerous to the nation and harmful for national defense.

He also chided the Bay State's senator for letting the housing contract at Camp Edwards in Sandwich go to an Iowa firm.

Quincy to Finance Fore River Housing

Housing accommodations for extra employes at Fore River Shipyards will be provided by private capital in Quincy at fair rentals, according to assurances given the Defense Commission in Washington and made known today.

Brando Is Held As Rum Runner

Three defendants, including Anthony J. (Tony) Brando, former Boston night club owner, were held today in federal court for appearance in Portland, Me., Oct. 31, as alleged members of a huge alcohol-running ring.

Operations of the ring, it is charged in secret indictments returned in Portland five weeks ago, included the smuggling of thousands of gallons of alcohol into Canada each week, with no taxes paid here or in Canada.

It is charged that the United States tax of $4.90 a gallon on alcohol and the Canadian tax of $13 a gallon were evaded.

Before U. S. Commr. Howard W. Robbins in Federal court today, Brando was held in $2000 for removal to Portland.

The other two held were Salvatore Giglia of Waltham, whose bail was fixed at $5000, and Frank W. Smith of Burlington, with bail of $500 set.

2 Children Killed In Chile Earthquake

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 25 (AP)—Many buildings were damaged and at least two persons, both children, were counted as dead today by an earthquake which shook Chile for a length of 1200 miles, from Antofagasta on the north to Lautaro on the south.

The dead were crushed under a falling wall here several hours after the quake had subsided. There were a number of minor injuries of panic-stricken residents who fled to the streets and fell or were trampled.

2 Czech Generals Seized in Polish Plot

BUCHAREST, Oct. 25 (AP)—Government agents arrested two refugee Czech generals today for taking part in what government sources described as a Polish sabotage and espionage plot. Both were charged with implication in the operation of three secret radio stations said to have been broadcasting "foreign propaganda" from Bucharest.

Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, former chief of the defeated Polish army, was taken into custody yesterday.

104,000 Nazi Children Taken From 2 Cities

BERLIN, Oct. 25 (AP)—Swedish reports said today that 104,000 children have been transported from Berlin to escape repeated bombings of the German capital by British bombers, and Nazi party officials said today another 50,000 are to be removed from the city.

The same sources announced that 42,000 children had been removed from Hamburg, Germany's great port which British bombers have been attacking almost nightly.

The number of children removed from other cities repeatedly attacked has not been reported.

The children are removed only when the parents voluntarily permit, officials emphasized. For the most part they have been taken into the highland country districts of Thuringia, Silesia and Upper Bavaria.

Cave Man Act Perils License

Ruling that a cafe employe who allegedly attempted to rip a waitress' coat from her body when she spurned his advances in a roadside cabin was "no fit person" to be working for the restaurant corporation, the Boston Licensing Board today ordered the man discharged.

"Unless he ceases to be an employe, and unless he resigns as clerk of the board of directors of the corporation holding the liquor license, no license will be issued to [redacted]," Miss Mary [redacted] chairman of the licensing board, said.

The [redacted] is Samuel Weiner of Seneca st., South End, manager of a South End cafe.

A waitress in the place, Mrs. Rita Kelly of West Newton st., South End, said Weiner, who was her boss for only two days, drove with her to an overnight cabin in Saugus when she went to get her pay.

They had a drink, she said, then Weiner suggested she take off her coat, and climaxed his suggestion by trying to rip it from her when she declined. She said she escaped by giving Weiner a water tumbler full of whiskey that put him to sleep.

Police had asked the licensing commission that the license of the restaurant, a seven-day hard liquor establishment, be revoked.

Berthas Again Bombard Dover

DOVER, England, Oct. 25 (AP)—Germany's long-range guns fired across the English channel in quick succession late today, shaking houses on shore and sending up great columns of water with their big shells.

A plane was seen cruising at low level between Calais and Boulogne, apparently aiding the gunners to spot their targets.

Interned Nazi Flees Toronto Hospital

TORONTO, Oct. 25 (AP)—A young German war prisoner wearing a blue naval uniform escaped early today from Christie Street Hospital here where he had been under treatment for [redacted] weeks.

How the prisoner, Carl Rave, escaped is not known. A physician believed to have been a member of a submarine crew, he was brought from a northern Ontario internment camp and was to have been returned [redacted]

Turkey Offered Red As Prize for Idlenes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (INS)—Germany was reported to have offered Russia all of Asiatic Turkey as a reward for keeping hands off while the Axis armies smash across the Dardanelles towards Britain's Iranian oil fields and the Suez Canal.

Diplomatic sources understood the Russians were awaiting developments resulting from Chancellor Hitler's talks with the French and Spanish chiefs of state before deciding whether to aid Turkey or passively assist the Axis in wiping it off the map.

One object of Hitler's meetings with the French Chief of State Petain and Spanish Generalissimo Franco was to range the French and Spanish navies beside the Italian, to hold the British Mediterranean fleet at the western end of that sea and in the South Atlantic, while the Axis' land forces stormed across the Dardanelles.

Jap-Soviet Deal Simmers

TOKYO, Oct. 25 (AP)—Japan's foreign office sources today call "much too premature" reports that a Japanese Soviet Russian nonaggression pact is to be signed almost immediately.

Yoshitsugu Tatekawa, Japan's new ambassador to Moscow, is to present his credentials to the Kremlin tomorrow, however, and Japanese newspapers have carried numerous reports, mostly from the German radio, that a pact may be concluded.

DEAD, DYING STREW LONDON

ing the rush hour struck in the center of a busy street intersection. Besides the street cars demolished, windows were blown out of nearby buses and their passengers were also killed or injured.

RAF BATTLES INVADERS

In the same section a bomb wrecked a row of shops over which there were appartments in which some persons were injured.

Shopkeepers joined householders and ARP workers in attending the injured.

One woman tore up her clothing for bandages to give first aid to those needing it.

At least three Nazi planes were reported shot down and the RAF fended off numerous raiders before they reached London. Others, taking advantage of the clouds, knifed through the defense lines to drop their bombs.

The flow of traffic in most sections was nearly normal.

It was not until late afternoon that the "raider passed" signal marked the end of a lengthy attack which occasioned the third raid alarm of the day.

The Nazi raiders stabbed twice at London in quick succession during the forenoon after a comparatively quiet night.

WOMEN VICTIMS

One of the street cars hit in the morning rush hour raid was crushed like a concertina and the others had windows and wood work blown out. Broken seats were flung into the roadway.

The driver of one car was killed. Casualties included some women.

Another stick of three bombs damaged a bus, wounding the conductor.

A one-plane dive-bombing attack preceded three air raid alarms, coming so swiftly in a suburb that no general alarm was sounded.

Early risers en route to their jobs saw the lone wolf raider hurtle down through the morning mists to an altitude of 2000 feet, unload its cargo of explosives and roar away. Several houses were damaged in the attack.

MIDLANDS BLASTED

Aerial assaults on London slackened considerably during the night but squadroons of Nazi bombers blasted at the industrial midlands furiously.

Royal Air Force warplanes, meanwhile, drove through a thick channel mist to strike at industrial targets in western and northern Germany, a shipbuilding yard in northern Germany and other targets in Nazi-occupied territory, the air ministry reported.

Strong forces of British bombers also attacked the Berlin area. The air ministry did not specify what targets were bombed in the German capital, but announced that oil plants, docks, shipping facilities, rail communications, freight yards, power stations and German airdromes were raided during the night.

A communique said docks and shipping, oil plants and a power station were hit at Hamburg, indicating that important port was a major objective in the night's raiding.

Oil plants at Hannover and Gelsenkirchen and docks and shipping at Cuxhaven, Bremerhaven, Wilhelmshaven, Rotterdam, Le Harve and Lorient were attacked, the communique reported, as well as railway communications and freight yards at Emmerich, Munster, Hamm, Bottrop and Duisburg.

One British plane, the ministry said, failed to return.

Berlin officials reported British planes raided the German capital for the second night in a row, dropping explosive and incendiary bombs and causing some injuries and "several" fires, which were extinguished quickly. A communique said "only single planes succeeded in flying over the city proper" and reported two invading planes shot down.—Editor's Note.

At Dover, the mists lifted and the French coast could be seen across the channel. The sea was fairly calm with a cold northeast wind blowing.

Britain Hears Greece Safe Until Spring

LONDON, Oct. 25 (INS)—Informed that an invasion of Greece has been postponed at least until spring, Italian troops in Albania are building barracks to house themselves and German forces through the heavy snows of winter, the Daily Telegraph reported from Athens today.

Italians Bomb Nile Valley

ROME, Oct. 25 (AP)—Italian bombers attacked numerous places in the Nile valley, which Egyptians regard as their real homeland, and Italian troops came off best in three clashes with British motor units in Egypt and Sudan, the high command said today.

Port Said, at the Mediterranean end of the Suez canal; an air fold at Catbhur, northwest of Cairo, and defense works at Abookir, 14 miles east of Alexandria, all in the Nile valley, were bombed and fires were caused "everywhere," said the communique.

Italian troops routed a British motorized force in a clash east of Sidi Barrani in Egypt, the communique said, and other clashes between Italians and British motorized units near Kassala and Setit on the Eritrean-Sudan frontier resulted in Italian victories.

Stay Clear of Axis, U.S. Warns France

other nations, including the United States, had named their members.

This temporary committee will function until two-thirds of the Pan-American States have ratified the convention establishing a permanent commission to administer European possessions which may be transferred from their parent power to another non-American nation.

Washington's interest centered meanwhile on Martinique, French Caribbean possession only a few hundred miles from the Panama area.

A group of French naval vessels now are blockaded in the harbor there by a British flotilla.

NO IMMEDIATE PERIL

While—so long as Britain's navy controls the Atlantic—there is no apparent danger of German forces taking over Martinique its transfer by Vichy to German sovereignty, or French permission for Germany to use it as a base, would, in the view of officials, violate the Havana conference's resolution against transfer of American possessions from one European power to another.

In the wider theater of war, the State Department was following with intense interest Germany's negotiations with France and Spain.

Officials believed that Berlin, having failed in its plans to invade Great Britain this fall, is now attempting to set the stage for a major attack on British interests in the Mediterranean and the Near East.

If France and Spain enter the "Axis" alliance, observers pointed out, Germany may attempt to march an army south in an attempt to conquer the British stronghold in Gibraltar, "key to the Mediterranean."

Meanwhile, if Hitler obtains France's navy, he may also strike at Suez.

F.D. May Be Asked To Sound Peace Offer

VICHY, Oct. 25 (INS)—Political observers here today were convinced that the first result of the interview between Adolf Hitler and Marshal Henri Petain will be a gigantic peace offensive against Great Britain, in which President Roosevelt may be invited to participate.

The possibility was seen that the Petain government of France may request President Roosevelt to appeal to Great Britain to agree to a peace settlement on the grounds that the continent of Europe is about to be united under the axis banner and it would be futile for Britain to continue the war.

Informed political quarters here said France might ask the President before the November elections to put into practice the "noble peace words" he made in his last speech by appealing to Britain to agree to call off the war.

President Roosevelt, in his Philadelphia speech Wednesday night, said: "It is for peace I have labored and it is for peace I shall labor all the days of my life."—Editor's note.

A rumor was current here that Marshal Petain had received a message from President Roosevelt the night before his departure to meet Hitler. Officials would neither confirm nor deny the rumor.

ITALIANS JOIN RAIDS ON LONDON

ROME, Oct. 25 (AP)—An Italian airbase has been established on the shore of the English channel and Italian bombers already have come back with "marks of combat" from forays with their German comrades on London, Il Giornale d'Italia reported today.

A dispatch from the paper's war correspondent said he saw when the Italian participation began, but indicated it was in the past few days.

The Fascist bombers hammered at their targets "for several hours," and their bombs, marked "Made in Italy," exploded in London streets "to the Churchill crowds' desperate stupor," he declared.

He said preparations for taking part in the Luftwaffe's offensive on Britain had been in progress for some time. The Fascist air forces stationed in occupied France were described as "a tremendous mass of men and material." They are commanded by Gen. Rino Corso Fougier, of Corsican origin and one of Italy's aces in the Spanish civil war.

MUSSOLINI TO CONFER WITH PETAIN AND LAVAL

ROME, Oct. 25 (AP)—Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano or even Premier Mussolini himself may meet with French Vice-Premier Pierre Laval and Chief of State Philippe Petain within the next few days, unofficial sources indicated today.

Separate talks between the Italian and French statesmen have been expected ever since Adolf Hitler's conferences with Laval became known.

Many Killed as RAF Blasts German Capital

LONDON, Oct. 25 (AP)—Britain's fiercely sustained air offensive blasted at the foundations of German war power last night with squadron after squadron of heavy bombers delivering destruction not only in Berlin and Hamburg, but in a dozen other vital centers, the air ministry announced today.

The German high command said there were a number of dead and injured in Berlin and Hamburg and fires and property damage in the harbor and other sections of Hamburg, where it said the British attacks were concentrated. Damage to houses and a lumberyard in Berlin also was reported. The number of killed in Berlin and Hamburg was "extremely high," said a German broadcast heard in New York by NBC, and "indiscriminate bombing of the German civilian population by the RAF is vastly increasing."—Editor's note.

3-HOUR RAID ON BERLIN

The air ministry news service said the British fliers, in a nearly three-hour attack on Berlin came down low to make sure of their targets and smashed the Putz-Strasse and Lehrter railway stations for the second night in succession in this, the 23d raid on Berlin.

The first wave of raiders reached Berlin just after midnight and attacked the railway yards with salvos of high explosive bombs which added to the "extensive damage" inflicted the previous night, the News Service said.

AMSTERDAM (via Berlin) Oct. 25 (AP) British air raiders attacked a number of places in German-occupied Holland early today it was announced officially.

A hit on a sugar factory 12 miles south of Rotterdam killed 25 persons and burned out part of the plant. Other hits were said to have been scored at Flushing and at Den Helder, a former Dutch naval base.

HELEN HAYES 'DEMOTES' HERSELF

By PEGGY DOYLE

Charlie MacArthur, playwright, Peck's bad boy of Hollywood and Broadway and former rewrite man of this newspaper, is counting on the Broadway boys forgiving him for demoting Helen Hayes from "queen to ecno" last season.

Confidentially, it was her own idea appearing in the Hecht-MacArthur comedy, "Ladies and Gentlemen," following her tremendously successful two-year reign as and in "Victoria Regina."

Charlie, wearing a new, pin striped blue suit and his old, blue eyed grin, admitted as much under cross-examination yesterday in a two-way interview with the press in his and Mrs. MacArthur's (nee Helen Hayes) Ritz Carlton suite.

"After 'Victoria' Helen wanted to bury herself in an ensemble play," he offered, in an undertone, while Miss Hayes was confessing that Monday's opening night audience at the Colonial—not Shakespeare—had stymied her several times during her Viola performance in "Twelfth Night."

BOSTON REVERENCE

"A Boston friend told me later the almost somber audience reaction was actually an expression of Boston's reverential attitude towards Shakespeare," continued Miss Hayes.

Charlie, who doesn't go much for Shakespeare, was saying meanwhile that he came to Boston to see "Panama Hattie."

"And what a grand job Ethel Merman does in it. And that infant, Joan Carroll—she's wonderful, not a trace of self-consciousness," he said.

WANTS TO BE ACTRESS

Which comment reminded some of us that little Mary MacArthur had appeared behind the footlights with her mother at two performances, after which she had announced she was going to be an actress.

Mary is 11 now and her mother, who was importantly featured in the Broadway musical "Old Dutch," with Lillian and the Castles, when she was eight, doesn't think that her daughter's stage ambitions are serious.

"But don't get Charlie started talking about them (they being Mary and her adopted brother, Jaimie, aged 2½ years). He's just an old softie about the children, thinks they're marvelous, brags about them whenever anyone will listen," said Helen.

TELLS OF NEW PLAY

Thus provoked, Charlie, out of pure jealousy, would talk only about his boat and the play he and Nunnally Johnson are doing, which, he says, is titled "The Melancholy Dane."

"Right now, we have three children in the house," Miss Hayes was saying about then, "our own and a four-year-old English boy, whose mother, an actress in the 'Victoria Regina' company, is also living with us at Nyack. He's a holy terror. He keeps running through the house after Charlie, shouting: 'Stick 'em up, you blighter!'"

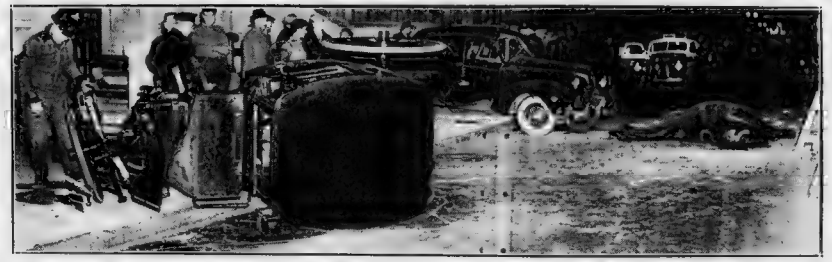
DEATH PATROLS SALISBURY BEACH

Body of Hotel Hostess Is Found in Surf

"Friend" Is Held—Authorities remove the body of Mrs. Olive Farrell from the surf-washed waters of Salisbury Beach today . . . after a trail of torn clothing brought searchers to the place. A man, known to have kept company with the woman, is being held.

Indianapolis—En route to Texas from Cape Cod, the 211th Coast Artillery arrives in Indianapolis and (l. to r.) Sergt. Melvin Fuller, Pvt. Alfred McGuiness, and Sergts. John Broomsmith, Leslie Ducker and Gunner Blomber look over the Soldiers' Monument there.



Today Crashes Into Yesterday—Horsedrawn victoria cab, one of the few left in New York City, is smashed by an automobile on Fifth ave. in the early morning . . . with the driver and two couples in the cab hurt and two of three in the sedan sustaining bruises. The horse was killed.

One Killed and 30 Hurt in St. Louis Labor Battle

Workers Fight to Death—Two pictures tell the story of a [illegible]age fight as non-union construction workers stormed a union picket line in Velda Village Hills, a subdivision of St. Louis, Mo. At left, stones are hurled . . . and, at right, deputy sheriffs give first aid to Upton Hammond, American Federation of Labor picket, who died shortly after.

WHO are the persons who seem to believe that a MISSILE is a better political weapon than a BALLOT?

Who are the persons who have been hurling eggs, fruit, vegetables and rocks at Wendell Willkie and his lovely wife?

In Detroit, the girl who threw a metal wastebasket from an eighteenth story hotel window was a RFC TYPIST.

In Chicago, a man who spattered Mr. Willkie with egg and ruined Mrs. Willkie's coat and hat was a WPA WORKER.

In Evansville, Ind., a group which booed their community's distinguished visitor, insulted his wife and tossed garbage were MEN ON RELIEF.

In St. Paul, Minn., a marksman who used over-ripe tomatoes, mushy apples and decaying squashes was a BOASTFUL NEW DEALER.

AFTER THE EGG ATTACK IN CHICAGO
Wendell Willkie Rightly Wonders "Is This America?"

WHAT IS THE STORY behind this outbreak of ruffianism and hoodlumism?

On not one but on many occasions Mr. Willkie pledged himself to help all welfare recipients to obtain WORK after his election on November 5.

What happened?

Frequently the reply from some misguided souls was a barrage of protests—not only unprintable WORDS, but equally despicable ACTS.

Disciples of violence, who, incidentally, have nothing in common with the thousands of good, loyal Americans who have been obliged to turn to the WPA and similar agencies, wanted the DOLE and the TAXPAYERS' MONEY.

To them the New Deal and four years more of Mr. Roosevelt meant a LIVING WITHOUT EFFORT on cash out of SOMEBODY ELSE'S POCKET.

In their minds, Mr. Willkie who dared to use such old-fashioned American phrases as JOBS IN PRIVATE INDUSTRY deserved a fruit and vegetable bombardment.

So, using the strength given them with dollars out of the people's bank account, they saw that he got it.

BUT AFTER ALL can we really blame such boisterous though inarticulate Third Term Camp followers, to whom apparently a life of slavish dependency on crumbs from the politicians' banquet table is the ultimate of earthly existence?

Would it not be wiser and fairer if we remembered that the Roosevelt Administration for seven long, miserable years has PREACHED and PRACTISED and CONDONED lawlessness?

Was it not Mr. Roosevelt who tried to eliminate the three separate and independent branches of the Federal Government by packing the Supreme Court and campaigning against Senators and Representatives who opposed his will.

Was it not Mr. Roosevelt who so frequently employed the full powers of his persuasive oratory and dramatic radio technique to assail individuals and institutions and to array class against class, the poor against the rich, the have-nots against the haves, the idlers against the workers?

And was it not a little group of "in-rights" that encouraged and even abetted sit-down strikes in the very areas where the attacks on Mr. Willkie and his wife have been most contemptible?

IS IT SURPRISING, therefore, that in consequence of such illustrious example, lesser men should stoop to unprecedented deeds in this campaign?

Under Lenin and Stalin in Communist Russia, lesser men proferred missiles to ballots.

Under Hitler, Goering and Goebbels in Nazi Germany, lesser men trampled civilization similarly.

Can it be that we are seeing the same horrible thing happen here under Mr. Roosevelt, who seeks a third term in defiance of all the lessons of a century and a half of democratic experience and preaches I AM THE ONLY MAN?

SOMEBODY stole Rinty, dog of 13-year-old Frank Kiemle of Chicago. Rinty managed to escape but returned home so sick from ill treatment he died. Frank now publishes a mimeographed magazine "Pet News" dedicated to Rinty. In each issue, the lad writes a letter to Rinty in "Dog Heaven," telling him how things are going on earth and signs it "Your Old Pal, Frank." Some people speak of a choice "between having kids and having a dog." How unseeing that is? Smart people make no choice between dogs and kids; they have both. What is a better and more inspiring combination than a kid and a dog?

OUR SNORING poem contest for a lock of Dorothy Lamour's hair seems to have revealed a tragic condition in the life of many of the married of America. For instance, one young matron offers:

There is nothing so boring
On a starlit night
As a husband snoring
With all his might.

And still another writes:

I was married in haste
To a man I adored
But repented in leisure,
When I learned that he snored.

Now that the Mellon Institute of Pittsburgh has completed its investigation of shaving I respectfully and hopefully suggest it begin an investigation of the cause and cure of snoring in the interest of decreasing the divorce rate. No husbands have written of snoring wives, but I suppose there are such. Ah, my friends, what a blow to romance; a snoring wife!

DUCKIEST-WUCKIEST magazine article of the month seems unquestionably to be Picture Play's "What We Like Girls to Wear by 13 Male Film Stars." In this Jeffrey Lynn is quoted: "I love white Buster Brown collars on dark dresses. Dirndls are cute." William Powell is reported to have stated: "I like black evening gowns—figure revealing." While it is alleged Fred MacMurray said: "I adore flower-pot shaped hats and other daffy hats." No doubt there will be many a broken heart among girls who find their new fall outfits do not coincide with the likes of these male stars. How about you, young lady? Have you a Buster Brown collar? Or a flower-pot hat? Or a dirndl? What, by the way, is a dirndl? Sounds like a typographical error to me.

-:- MY DAY

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 25—My brother lunched with us Wednesday in the country and brought me the first few chapters of a new book which he is writing on his Alaskan experiences.

These experiences began immediately after he left college, so he saw Alaska in what might be called her most picturesque days. He fell in love with this part of the country, which he still considers a land of promise for the young and adventurous.

Whether you wish to follow in his footsteps or not, if the book continues to be as interesting as these first chapters indicate, I think you will all enjoy the vivid pictures of the development of this northwestern corner of our country.

A RIDE in the afternoon, a short time to work, and then Miss Thompson and I drove up to dine with Mrs. George Huntington at Barrytown, New York. The evening was spent listening to the radio, mostly the Herald-Tribune forum.

At one point I was a little sorry for Mrs. Ogden Reid, because her forum reminded me so much of the Democratic National Convention with a chairman valiantly trying to keep order. Of course, we switched over to Philadelphia to listen to the President's speech, though I had read it before I left Washington. Then we tuned back to the forum till it was a little past 11 o'clock. I hope that everyone throughout the nation spent their evening in exactly the same way. I felt it was profitable.

THE CLOSING DAYS of the New York World's Fair must make everyone feel that the opportunity to see much of interest will soon be over. My mother-in-law left for New York city Wednesday with the firm intention of spending two days at the fair.

When I went over to get some homespun cloth from our neighbor, Mrs. Nelly Johannesen, who spends her spare time weaving, I found her in a great state of excitement. She does not often leave home. Two school teachers board with her, she runs a little restaurant, has a gas station and is busy from morning till night. She fills the spare moments with her weaving.

There is really not much time to gad, but yesterday Mrs. Johannesen rose early, for a friend was taking her to see the New York World's Fair before it closes. In her enthusiastic way, she said to me:

"I am going to lock up and I won't be home until 11:00 o'clock. I'm going to see all I can."

The zest for living is in her voice and face. Life has been none too easy but life has never downed the spirit of this woman who still wants to see as much as she possibly can and who, I hope, will enjoy every minute of her short holiday.

We drove down to New York city in time for a series of engagements. However, none of them are fraught with the spirit of adventure for us.

CARUSO WIDOW DIGS FOR FOOD

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Oct. 25—Dorothy Holder, who was the widow of Enrico Caruso, still is in Cannes, living in the home of Dickie Fellowes Gordon . . . She reports that she's lost 40 pounds in an unusual reduction process. She lost that weight tilling the soil and working the land for food . . . Bill Farnsworth, the veteran sports writer and promoter, hasn't been well of late and went to see a phychoanalyst . . . Farnsworth submitted to the usual first treatment and then was told by the psychoanalyst: "The most important thing right now is that you're not to worry. Remember, don't do anything that will worry you" . . . Farnsworth heeded that advice immediately. He walked out—without paying.

MADGE BELLAMY

CHATTER: Charlie Chaplin, in discussing the final speech he makes in "The Great Dictator"—the message which was criticized by the film reviewers—said: "To me that speech is the most important thing in the picture. Even if I knew that it meant the difference between a hit and a flop I'd insist on keeping that speech in the picture" . . . Bosley Crowther of the N. Y. Times will be the new president of the N. Y. Film Critics Circle . . . Madge Bellamy will join the Block and Sully road tour of "See My Lawyer" in Detroit.

DEBATE: Melvyn Douglas and Robert Benchley were guests at a house party and immediately went to a corner and started debating. Donald Ogden Stewart joined them just to listen—and discovered that they were debating about Clemenceau and the work he had done at Versailles . . . "Douglas, it's too late. The only Douglas debate which will be remembered is the one against Lincoln."

CRIME: Swifty Morgan—who once threw B. B. shot through his teeth into the hair of the unsuspecting Prince of Wales, and convinced him to go downstairs and wash his hair as a cure—was in Lindy's relating his experiences in Paris . . . Swifty, who now sells ties of his own make, offered to sell Dist. Atty. O'Dwyer some ties . . . The prosecutor stared coldly at Morgan—who explained: "I'm ligitimate now. The only place I'm wanted is Paris, and the cops there are now too busy to worry about me."

PLANS: General William Ottman, General Edward E. Gauche and Captain Vincent F. M. J. Marcheselli dined at the Maison Louis Saturday night. They huddled over the tablecloth on which they drew many diagrams . . . When they left the manager brought the tablecloth to them and suggested that they take it . . . "You never can tell about spies," he explained, "and I don't want to become involved" . . . "Oh, it's all right," they said. "They're just diagrams of football plays."

CHANGE: Max Gordon, who is producing the new play by Sam and Bella Spewack, conferred at his office with Sam Levene, who will direct it. Levene made a suggestion and Gordon said: "Times certainly have changed. In the old days, when I was producing shows like 'Strike Up the Band,' if the director made a suggestion like that I threw him out of my office" . . . "And now?" asked Levene. "Now times have changed," said Gordon, striding toward the door. "Now—I leave."

ENTERPRISE: Abe Lyman, impressed with the popularity of audience-participation radio shows, is preparing to return to radio in a new show to be called "Darn That Dream" . . . "We invite the listeners to send in their dreams," Lyman explained, "and we'll give five bucks to the ones who send in the best dreams — but they must be real dreams" . . . "But, Abe," he was asked, "how will you tell when a dream is real? Suppose people concoct dreams and send them to you?" . . . "That won't be any trouble," Lyman assured. "A smart guy can tell . . ."

MEETING: Henri Bernstein, the French playwright who has fought duels with critics, was introduced to William Saroyan by James Cannon . . . "You two have something in common," said Cannon. "What?" asked Bernstein . . . "The drama critics," said Cannon. "Saroyan cons 'em—and you stab 'em."

EXCLUSIVE: Two hundred millions are earmarked for "defense housing projects," and ten per cent of the total amount is expected to reach the New England sector . . . Close followers of the nation's low-cost housing spree have been expecting some such action for many months . . . And a prediction by John A. Breen, chairman of the Boston housing project that ordinary civilian housing would be deferred eventually in favor of the defense-program's needs, was printed in this space weeks ago . . . But few are aware that definite action is close at hand.

FROM A HIGH AND RELIABLE source in Washington, your reporter has received word that announcement of the defense housing program will be made shortly—perhaps within a fortnight . . . To Mr. Breen and other advocates of the government's tremendous program to re-house a portion of the nation, news that the decision to devote housing money solely to construction of homes for workers near plants involved in arming the U. S. A. is certain to be disappointing . . . But the bulletin—or tip—will spread much cheer among the contractors of this section . . . (We may have more details in the near future . . . Meantime sites for housing projects in the vicinity of Watertown where the arsenal is working at capacity, of Fore River and the shipyard, of Springfield and Bangor, Me., are certain to be selected, we are told).

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Cole Porter surprised even his associates of "Panama Hattie" by responding to an introduction by Mickey Alpert at the Cocoanut Grove with a few exercises in pianoforte . . . The famous composer of "Night and Day," "Begin the Beguine," "I Get a Kick Out of You," and the scores of "Du Barry Was a Lady" and "Panama Hattie," entertained a huge midnight crowd at the Cocoanut Grove.

COLE PLAYED THE FIRST song he wrote, and Joe "Love Eyes" Cadullo did an excellent job of accompanying Mr. Porter on the violin . . . Betty Hutton perpetrated her patented brand of mayhem and clothes-rumpling on Maestro Alpert, and sang a ditty . . . Another surprise was Audrey Christie's delivery of "Varsity Drag" . . . When Zelma O'Neal made that song famous in "Good News," Audrey was in the cast.

MISS CHRISTIE is playing in "Return Engagement," a non-musical show, and her long absence from the musical comedy stage has identified her with the "straight" dray-ma . . . One producer at least, Buddy De Sylva, was reminded that Audrey can sing—and dance.

A SEVEN POUND BABY BOY'S arrival at Charlesgate Hospital has graduated Ruby Foo, most publicized Chinese-American in the country, into the grandmother class—although the fastidious and sleek Mrs. Foo really resembles a young matron . . . The baby is the first-born of Ruby's handsome son, Earl . . . Ruby has been stationed in Providence, where her venture with Tommy Maren as co-proprietor of The Providence Beachcomber has been prospering . . . But Ruby sped to Boston to greet her tiny grandson, and the celebration is on.

MITZI GREEN'S PRESENCE at the Mayfair caused an approximate doubling of the receipts, as compared with those of last Thursday . . . Mickey Redstone—who doesn't wager on horses—is a bit remorseful that he failed to follow the urgings of a friend and make a wager on a horse named Mitzi, which galloped home a winner in the third race at Empire the day of Miss Green's Boston premiere . . . The nag paid $58.60 to win. (A $30 bet would have paid Mitzi's salary).

ROSALIND RUSSELL of the cinema has been so moved by Jimmy Cagney's allegorical description of Martha's Vineyard it is a toss-up between Massachusetts and Hawaii as the fair Rosalind's imminent vacation-spot . . . Miss Russell has been qualifying lately as the female wit of Hollywood . . . The lovely Roz is a wise-cracker of the Dorothy Parker class, or she owns an excellent and industrious press-agent.

MONTGOMERY ATTACK IRES FILMDOM

By Louella O. Parsons

Robert Montgomery

NEW YORK, Oct. 25—Never in the years I have been covering movie news have I known the whole industry in such a state of indignation as is Hollywood following Robert Montgomery's unwarranted attack in New York. Wires and telephone calls from the Coast literally poured into my dressing room. Men and women who have worked side by side with Montgomery for years are shocked and heartsick over his speech before a newspaper forum on current problems.

Shocking indeed at a time when Hollywood needs every shoulder to the wheel are his statements that: "Any resemblance between the motion picture industry and creative art is purely coincidental . . . under the leadership that the motion picture industry has today I feel its functions cannot be properly and courageously performed . . . the present industry control stifles and thwarts the creative elements which it employs in producing mass entertainment."

ILONA MASSEY

Is Montgomery so busy taking bites out of the hand that has fed him for 12 years that he fails to realize that the United States government itself is cooperating with such splendid patriotic shorts as Warner Brothers are making. What about the industry's concerted efforts to cement American-South American relationships with good will films? What of Hollywood's great efforts on behalf of the Red Cross and "Community Chest"? As for the matter of leadership, what about the darling of such films as "Total Storm," "Confessions of a Nazi Spy," "The Great Dictator," "Foreign Correspondent" and many others? An industry that has given us "Gone With the Wind," "Grapes of Wrath," "Zola," "Pasteur," "The Long Voyage Home" and many other fine films has to make no apology to Robert Montgomery or anyone else for its artistic standard.

WE DON'T HEAR as much about parachute troops as we did when the Nazis were on the march in Poland and Czechoslovakia but Howard Benedict has certainly chosen a timely subject for his next picture "Parachute Squadron" at RKO. It will deal with the parachute jumpers being trained by military authorities in the United States at Fort Benning, Ga. Benedict would like to get Jimmy Stewart for the lead.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD AND NEW YORK: Bonnie Baker's mother is on her way to Hollywood from Texas to make sure Bonnie knows her own mind before she marries Orrin Tucker; Ina Ray Williams and Lupe Velez are going on a personal appearance tour after they're married; one of our most interesting visitors at Hartford, a friend of Jan Stacy's is Stewart Bartholmess. Stewart tells me he has been legally adopted by Dick Bartholmess and that he's a student at Trinity College, Duke's alma mater. He is the son of Mrs. Jessica Bartholmess by a former marriage.

SORRY to hear Richard Bennett suffered a heart attack and was rushed to the Queen of the Angels Hospital. However, he was so improved in a few hours they were able to take him back to the home of Barbara Bennett. Elaine Barrymore's newest escort is Eddie Moran. They were at the Earl Carroll Lee Crosby, the youngest Crosby son, has been signed by Raymond Hakim and Robert Del Valle to a Latin-American-some; their friends hope the talented son follows Dick Green (the song writer—not the actor) and Betty Kern, daughter of Jerome Kern, isn't true.

JIMMY RITZ is in the Cedars of Lebanon for a nose operation—not for beauty but to improve his breathing; Ernst Lubitsch is holding secret conferences in Terry Hunt's rock steam room. Nice to work and be able to whittle off your waist line at the same time; it's the big day in New York and we're really happy about the act. Ilona Massey sang so beautifully they'd hardly let her off the stage in Hartford. Connie Barnes, Bill Orr and Mike Frankovich kept them in the aisles with their comedy antics. The romantics in the audience certainly went for Robert Stack and Brenda Joyce. Sabu is marvelous. I'm indeed lucky to be with such a grand gang of real troupers.

EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1940

THE WAR GUILT OF THE G. O. P.

(Provided by the Democratic National Committee)

Winston Churchill said last year:

"It may well be that the preservation of European peace will be secured through his far-sighted and courageous policy."

Churchill was referring to President Roosevelt. He said the President's promise of aid to the democracies in the event they were the victims of unprovoked aggression was a "potent stabilizing factor." He felt that Roosevelt's wise policy might avert the blood bath which has since drenched Europe.

The Republicans never quote this passage from Churchill's book because it gives them a guilty conscience.

When Ambassador Joe Kennedy and Ambassador Bill Bullitt went before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to give a true picture of the menacing war situation in Europe, they were hooted and ridiculed by the Republicans. They were called warmongers.

When President Roosevelt sought to have the restrictions on arm shipments lifted before war broke out, the Republicans blocked it. Yet Churchill felt this policy might preserve the peace of Europe.

Aladdin and His Lamp

The most short-sighted men in recent history were the Republican leaders last year. Do you remember the late Senator Borah's "private advises" that there would be no war in Europe? Do you remember Taft, Hoover, Nye, Vandenberg and all the motley crew of G. O. P. "statesmen" telling this country that victory for Hitler was impossible?

ANOTHER BUSINESSMAN

The Republicans almost without exception were obstructionists—too busy hating Roosevelt to see the fire before their eyes. No one knows what Wendell Willkie thought then.

The Republicans had an amusing column recently pointing out that Chamberlain and Blum failed because they were "unprepared." Chamberlain and Blum were businessmen. And now the Republicans wish to fasten a "businessman" on this country.

The fact is that Wendell Willkie's dismal failure as a businessman should make the American people pause and reflect.

During the seven years Willkie headed Commonwealth & Southern, his company failed to pay a dividend on common stock.

The company is more than $20,000,000 in arrears on its preferred stock.

Did you ever reflect on the fact that the Republicans never discuss Willkie's business record? They never discuss the $500,000,000 in water which was hastily stricken from the company books—just before Roosevelt got to the White House. And yet while this $500,000,000 watered "write-up" was on the books, Willkie was general counsel and a DIRECTOR of Commonwealth & Southern. Sound business practice! Yet on this record, the Republicans want to promote Willkie to be head of the United States!

Herbert Hoover was a businessman and a flop in the White House. But at least Mr. Hoover was a SUCCESSFUL businessman.

REPUBLICANS FOR ROOSEVELT

Chase Mellen, Jr., is head of the Committee of Regular Republicans in New York City who are supporting President Roosevelt for re-election. He is a former Republican county chairman.

These Republicans are opposed to many features of the Roosevelt domestic program. But on the vital issue of foreign affairs, they think the President's continuance in office is essential. In a radio address, Mr. Mellen said:

"But we believe that the issue today is the preservation of American democracy against the onslaught of a world revolution bent on the enslavement of all mankind.

"We believe the freedom of our country, the very existence of the American way of life, is at stake. We believe there is a clear and present danger of foreign dictation that will deny us the privilege of even disagreeing on domestic questions.

"The paramount issue today is the defense of the United States and on that issue we believe that Mr. Roosevelt is a stronger man than Mr. Willkie."

Shifting Leadership At the Biltmore!

By CARLISLE BARGERON

(Provided by the Republican National Committee)

Ladees and Gentlemen, there is a sight to be seen over in the New Deal headquarters at the Biltmore Hotel. One day the flag of Boss Ed Flynn is flying from the mast, the next it is that standard of mysterious design, which betokens Tommy the Cork Corcoran is in charge—"Corcoran calling from the White House," a message that has set business men, politicians and statesmen atrembling—or laughing—at all times of the night.

Senator Jimmy Byrnes

Then, as if to make a mere watcher of the display think he is color blind, up goes the standards of Jimmy Byrnes of the "slave" state of South Carolina, and that of "Dear Alben" Barkley of Kentucky.

From throughout the land come frantic callers pleading that something "be done in my state," and while they are in the act of making their plea to Top Man Flynn, the standards change to denote the Top Man is Tommy the Cork, Jimmy or Dear Albeen. Ladees and Gentlemen, it's driving the New Deal boys nuts.

Now, it may be significant that Jimmy Byrnes came to town and his standard was run up, just after the New Deal colored division under the sponsorship of Boss Flynn and Charlie the Mike, was caught smearing Mr. Willkie. It has occurred to us this was a very strange endeavor on Charlie the Mike's part because he is of German ancestry, himself.

Anyway, Jimmy is an authority on the colored race, suh, and will undoubtedly go good with the Harlem vote. In every session of Congress we can remember, your Senator Bob Wagner (who, incidentally was born in Germany), the leader of the Social Conscious Boys—at every session, he has introduced the anti-lynching bill, and Jimmy filibusters against it. Nice little racket they have between them, isn't it?

"Dear Alben" Barkley

The REAL Democrats—those we like to call the Jim Farley Democrats—look upon Jimmy as a Quisling. You know, the fellow who sold out the Norwegians. Back in 1938, Jimmy was one of the first Senators to become alarmed over what was happening in Washington. Behind the scenes he started a movement to check Mr. Roosevelt. Nobody could be more serious than he, as he counselled Jim Farley, Jack Garner and others: "We've go to do something to stop this fellow—for the sake of the country, regardless of what it means to us."

Indeed, Jimmy was so wrought up over the purge campaigns of 1938, that he went back to his State to help Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith, one of the intended purgees. One of the main things that saved "Cotton Ed" was a slogan coined by Jimmy. It was:

"There are no Senators in Germany!"

Boss "Ed" Flynn

When Jimmy got back to Washington for the session of 1939, he had succeeded in getting Jack Garner, Jim Farley and others to "stick their necks out." All of these gentlemen whose necks were stuck out, rated Jimmy in standing the seniority. So, Jimmy then eased around and got back in the good graces of Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal again. This little manipulation has brought him to Top Place in the League.

He even out rates Dear Alben. Dear Alben's title is that of Senate leader, but Dear Alben has never "led" anything or anybody. He is told what to do.

This New Deal is really a weird conglomeration, having no more relation to the Democratic party than Henry Wallace. At the top of it are such Socialites as Bill Bullitt and Francis Biddle, of the Philadelphia Bullitts, Biddles and Bullitts. A few weeks ago, Bill who has gotten a profound knowledge of the "lower clarss" from profound books, was very impressive in a news reel, pointing to the Liberty Bell and exclaiming: "Don't let Hitler get yonder Bell."

We will not, Bill! Nor are we going to let you and your gang get it, either.

Tommy the Cork

Bill is now going up and down the country exhibiting what purports to be a statement by Deladier, former Premier of France, that Bill kept telling him he couldn't count on our getting in the war.

Bill, you've made too many statements to newspapermen and others, to make this convincing. How about what you promised the Polish ambassador in Washington?

In fact, ever since Bill was Madame Schwimmer's protege on the Ford Peace Ship during the First World War, his record is one of anything for adventure.

One of Dear Alben's greatest triumphs in life was to prevent passage of the Hatch bill in 1938. He said proudly it would prevent the WPA workers from being exploited in his race against Happy Chandler. Had it carried he would not be here—to lead.

HENRY — This Should Hold It Down

Bugler Woos Dad Into Army

CAMP SHELBY, Miss., Oct. 25 (AP)—Weldon Going, 23-year-old bugler in the 37th Division here, always liked his father's cooking.

So after serving three years in the National Guard in Columbus, O., he prevailed on his company captain to talk his father, Lester Going, 40, into enlisting.

The father had been an Army cook 15 years ago, anyway, so he liked the idea and joined up. Then father and son were called to active service.

Now they have tents across the company street from one another, the father cooking and the son bugling.

This Check Sheet, together with the other five Check Sheets appearing from Monday, October 21, to Saturday, October 26, inclusive, should be brought or mailed to the Game of Check, Box 2337, Boston Record-American, Boston, Massachusetts, before midnight, Saturday, November 2, together with 10c in coin. Contestants will receive a special Quiz Booklet at the conclusion of the Contest.

TODAY'S WINNERS

Questions 11A, 11B, and and 11C in today's Check Sheet were suggested by Mrs. Kathleen Goodwin, Summer St., Plymouth, Mass., Mrs. Coates, Elm St., Charlestown, Mass., and Gertrude Branch, Union St., Claremont, N. H., each of whom receives a check for $25.00. Congratulations!

Each Check Sheet appearing in the Record and American contains three question-cartoons and each such question is followed by four suggested answers—no more, no less. The correct answer always appears among them.

One Check Sheet appears each week-day. Thus six Check Sheets will appear from Monday through Saturday of each week and those six Check Sheets will comprise that week's series.

SEND TEN CENTS WITH EACH SERIES

By sending in Check Sheets 1-6 and 7-12 (No. 12 will appear tomorrow), you will have submitted your first two series and will be entirely up-to-date with the contest. Each of these series must be accompanied by 10c in coin, in order to qualify your answers for a prize under the rules.

ONLY ONE CORRECT ANSWER TO EACH QUESTION

The Game of Check doesn't require any guesswork. Each and every question is based on fact and not on opinion. Hence, you don't have to try to figure out whether the judges will like one answer better than another. Each correct answer will be provable and its correctness will be based on the highest authority!

THE RULES

1—The Boston Record-American GAME OF CHECK is open to all persons living in the New England States. However, no employes of the Boston Record, the Boston American or Sunday Advertiser, members of their families, nor any newspaper dealers and carriers who deliver the Boston Record, the Boston American or Sunday Advertiser, nor any person acting as a proxy for another, nor any person who has won $500 or over in any contest, may win a prize.

2—Beginning Monday, October 14, 1940, a check sheet will be published each weekday in the Boston American and the Boston Record. Each check sheet will contain three cartoon questions. Four and only four suggested answers will be printed under each cartoon question used in the daily check sheets. One and only one of these suggested answers is the correct answer to the question appearing above. The six check sheets published during each week will constitute a series. There will be fifteen series. Answers to each week's series of cartoon questions should be brought or mailed to the Contest Editor, P. O. Box 2337, c/o the Boston Record-American Game of Check. Answers for each week's series should be submitted within the week after that series appears in the Boston Record and the Boston American.

3—One hundred prizes will be awarded by the Boston Record-American in accordance with the published schedule of prizes, to those 100 contestants who, by their answers, achieve the 100 highest scores. A check sheet will not be judged as a unit—each and every question will be judged separately. Thus, a contestant will get credit for each question correctly answered. No contestant may win more than one prize. Rankers does not count. Do not decorate your answers.

4—In case two or more contestants are tied for a certain prize, just what particular prize each contestant may be entitled to will be determined by submitting to each tied contestant a set of tie-breaking questions, and, if necessary, a second, third, or fourth set of tie-breaking questions. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the highest scores achieved by contestants, in accordance with the instructions and scoring regulations governing the solution of such tie-breaking questions. At the discretion of the Boston Record and the Boston American, tied contestants may be required to work the tie-breaking questions, without assistance in the offices of the Boston Record or the Boston American. In case of final ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

5—In order to qualify for a prize, contestants are required to accompany each weekly series of Check Sheets with a remittance of 10c in coin. An individual file will be set up for each qualified contestant and each weekly set of answers duly filed therein. After the contest closes, each individual file will be duly judged. To those contestants who complete the 15 weekly series of check sheets and who in all other ways conform to the rules of the contest, the Boston Record-Americans will present a special quiz booklet created by Harold Hart, author of the famous quiz volume, "Invitation to Fun."

6—Any person, by entering this contest understands that it is a contest of individual effort, and agrees to abide by and accept as final the decision of the Boston Record-American on all matters affecting this contest, including among others the qualification of contestants, their disqualification at any time before or after January 27th, the closing date, for any cause deemed necessary, the applications of the rules, the establishment of time limitations, the judging of answers, the scoring of answers, and the interpretation of such instructions (governing individual questions) as may be announced by the officials of the contest. By entering this contest, participants agree that their answers become the property of the Boston Record-American and will not be returned.

7—Entries that are not signed by name will not be considered eligible for prizes nor will any claims to the ownership of such entries be recognized. Entries which are illegible will not be considered. Not more than one prize will be awarded to members of any one immediate family. The Boston Record-American will not be responsible for entries or communications lost or unduly delayed either from the contestant to the Boston Record-American Contest Editor or from the Boston Record-American to the contestant.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

I SAW an unforgettable thing once—a great gorilla, swinging in his cage.

I had never seen a gorilla. Facing the big, open air cage, I was filled with the liveliest expectation. Here, I had been told, was the strongest, fiercest thing in captivity. Jungle strength, in its most savage form, that would be a thrilling sight.

But when the huge beast ambled out of his lair, I was a little disappointed. He was horrible enough—a hairy nightmare. But so clumsy and badly proportioned—surely that vast bulk of bulging muscle could not get under way fast enough to be a great menace.

Then, with a sudden movement, he left the earth and was clinging to the steel bars roofing the cage. He did not jump. He did not leap or lunge. He simply rose in one, long silky curve—and began to swing. And, swinging, he was thistledown!

Hundreds of pounds of thistledown!

Not a sound—not an abrupt movement—

Silently, swiftly as light, he flowed through the air . . . poured himself across yards of space . . . sustained himself, in exquisite balance, on emptiness.

Enormous shoulders—blotting out the sunshine as they swayed above me—

Tremendous arms—weaving, like pistons through the warm, still air—

Yet never a sound! Muscle blowed into muscle . . . rose and fell, locked and relaxed . . . softly as the slipping of shadow across still water.

Then, while I watched incredulously—not believing that this thing could really be happening at all—the enormous black hand reached silently out—gripped a three-inch steel bar—and twisted it as though it were a spider web.

And the keeper's shout of warning was like a blow, crashing through a dream.

So this was strength. Real strength. That soft, silky, outpouring of power . . . so perfectly controlled, so exquisitely co-ordinated that there was no need of sound or haste or conscious effort.

And I had had such a different idea of strength. A childishly crude idea. For, somehow, I had thought strength needed to be noisy. Needed to attract attention.

But strength—real strength—did none of these things.

That WAS the test of strength. ITS ABILITY TO FUNCTION WITHOUT EFFORT — TO DO THE THING REQUIRED WITHOUT FRICTION.

Well, one certainly could learn from a gorilla!

Food Values Stressed in These Answers

By MARTHA LEE

Homemakers from Maine to California are asking many questions about food values, better nutrition, how to give their families well balanced meals. When the questions are directed to the United States government, nutritionists in the Bureau of Home Economics supply answers.

Almost every letter in their mail-bag is worth sharing with other homemakers. Here's a sample:

Q—I have been told that oranges lose their vitamin C a few minutes after they are cut and squeezed for juice. Is this true?

A—Fortunately orange juice does not lose its vitamin C for some time after it is squeezed. And oranges and orange juice rate as top notch sources of this important vitamin, especially during the winter when other fresh fruits and vegetables may be scarce. If you put orange juice in a covered container and keep it in the refrigerator, there is little loss of vitamin C until the second day.

RICH IN VITAMIN C

Q—Why are canned tomatoes always near the top of the list of foods rich in vitamin C, when other canned vegetables are not even mentioned?

A—To begin with, fresh tomatoes are richer in vitamin C than most other vegetables. And the acid of the tomatoes keeps the vitamin C from being destroyed in the canning process.

Q—During the winter I buy canned vegetables rather than fresh ones because they are cheaper and it takes less fuel to cook them. Also I can't keep fresh vegetables on hand very long. Now I am wondering whether the canned vegetables are as good for us as the fresh ones. Do they furnish all the food values we need?

A—Canned vegetables have about the same food value that fresh vegetables have after they are cooked. But be sure to use the liquid from your canned vegetables. Serve it with the vegetables or use it in making soups, stews, and gravies. This liquid contains minerals and some vitamins, which you won't want to waste if you're trying to make your food money go as far as possible. If you don't use fresh vegetables your diet may be low in vitamin C, so be sure to use generous amounts of citrus fruits and fresh or canned tomatoes.

It's always a good plan also to have some raw fruits or vegetables in your meals each day. They furnish vitamins, and they give you variety in textures and flavor so your meals are more interesting.

PLENTY OF IRON IN PRUNES

Q—I've been reading about the large surplus of prunes, and feel that I ought to be serving them often. What food values do they contain?

A—Prunes are a good source of iron and they also provide some calcium—two minerals that you have to check carefully in planning your meals each day. Prunes also contribute some vitamin B-1 and some vitamin A to the diet. Aside from food values, you'll do well to make use of prunes because they are a low cost fruit—full of flavor and easy to keep on hand.

Q—I've been trying to plan our meals so they will have all the food values we need. But I can't get my husband to drink a pint of milk a day, as the diet plans recommend. I know he needs the milk for the calcium and other food values it contains. Can you give me any help?

A—The grown person who won't drink milk is a problem in many households. And, as you say, everybody needs the calcium of milk for the upkeep of the teeth and bony structure—even after they are grown.

If you can't get your husband to drink milk, why not use it in cooking so he will eat the milk without realizing it. Cream soups, sauces, scalloped dishes, custards, and pudding offer good ways to include milk in the daily diet.

Of course American cheddar cheese, the yellow kind that you buy in slices can also be a good source of calcium for adults.

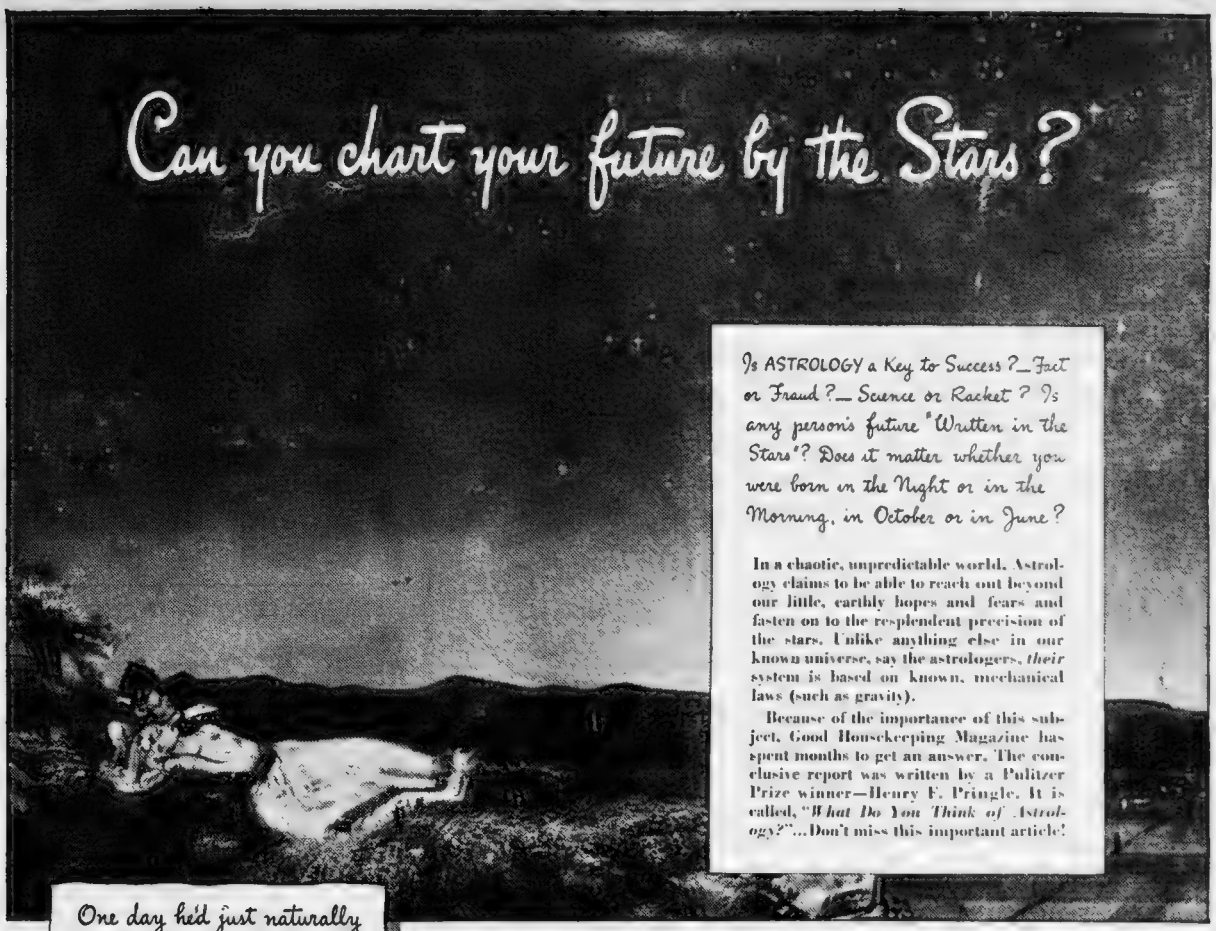
Can you chart your future by the Stars?



Is ASTROLOGY a Key to Success?—Fact or Fraud?—Science or Racket? Is any person's future "Written in the Stars"? Does it matter whether you were born in the Night or in the Morning, in October or in June?

In a chaotic, unpredictable world, Astrology claims to be able to reach out beyond our little, earthly hopes and fears and fasten on to the resplendent precision of the stars. Unlike anything else in our known universe, say the astrologers, their system is based on known, mechanical laws (such as gravity).

Because of the importance of this subject, Good Housekeeping Magazine has spent months to get an answer. The conclusive report was written by a Pulitzer Prize winner—Henry F. Pringle. It is called, "What Do You Think of Astrology?"...Don't miss this important article!

One day he'd just naturally tell her he loved her....

Helen Edmonds was sure about that in the dream-laden, sunlit summer of 1933... Helen was nineteen then, but before you finish this profoundly moving novelette, Helen will be 26. She will have gone through much. She will reach a night when she is "filled with a cold and paralyzing panic," and she will want to scream—knowing that if she does—she will never stop!

"YOU'VE NEVER BEEN SO PRETTY" by Allene Corliss is one novelette you won't dismiss as "just another piece of fiction." You'll find it terribly and hauntingly real.

$5,000 a week—yet they preferred Christmas with a horse!

Here were the two greatest dancers in the country—and their manager couldn't keep them away from the race track.

Read "THEY COULD DANCE LIKE A DREAM" by Price Day and George Bradshaw, and find how Lily and Berk snapped out of it—because they were in love—and because a good manager is always there when you need him.

"You're never going to love anything on earth but YOURSELF"

"I won't listen to such talk," Jocelyn said. "Sit down," the man said: "you'll listen"—and she did!

She listened because her father-in-law-to-be was talking about his son—the man she loved. She listened because she was fascinated—half-paralyzed with terror the way a songbird is paralyzed by the diving attack of a hawk.

But she was boiling mad, too—mad clean through. If it took a lifetime, she was going to prove this man wrong. If it took everything she had and if it broke up a family into the bargain, she was going to show him there was nothing about love he could teach her!

Don't miss learning what Jocelyn learned in "THE SHAPE OF LOVE." Here's the month's most startling and original short story, by Margaret Lee Runbeck.

Are you sick to death of Front Porches?

evening dresses run up on a machine?—and everything else about a small town?

Evie was—and so was Jane. So Evie came to New York and became "Evelyn," and Jane became "Nada." They rented an apartment together up on the East Side—took French lessons—were taken to the Stork Club and Twenty-One—And then Evelyn met Barry....

Read "MANHATTAN INTERLUDE" by Catherine Hubbell... a story that's as human as the boy next door and as thrilling as Rockefeller Center silhouetted against a winter sky at 5:15 p.m.

You Can Be Beautiful

This Triple-Duty Lotion Solves Blemish Problem

By ARLINE GOULD

ONCE the best you could do with a blemished complexion was to keep attention from focusing on it, by minimizing make-up . . . nowadays you gaily cover it with a silken liquid powder, which sets to work at the root of the trouble, even while it gives you a firm foundation for a glamorous make-up!

Even if yours is not the problem of blemishes, but one of oiliness which could lead to such troublesome developments like blackheads or eruptions . . . you'll discover that this powder base liquid is a preventative of no mean attainments

This needn't be a purely feminine prerogative, this wonder-working liquid bake-up base . . . because it is actually not particularly noticeable before you powder over it . . . and the young chap with a skin that sometimes breaks out, or the one whose skin is unduly sensitive after shaving, will find it just as dependable because of its all-day action in keeping the skin free from irritation or blemish.

A remarkable facet of this triple-duty liquid's action is the way it cleans out pores while it acts as a smooth powder base. For this invaluable aid alone, in keeping pores exquisitely free of impurities, many a girl with a perfect complexion depends on this powder-liquid affair to keep it that way.

If you'd like to learn more about this remarkable cosmetic aid, a triple duty lotion for blemished, oily complexions, or those which want to keep free of pore-choking impurities, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Country Mouse

By Charles McGuirk

AS BAD LUCK would have it, Penny Beldon ran into her bad bronchial condition about eight months after she created the role of Martha Stevers in "The Dice Cup," Broadway's hit comedy drama. The show had brought her stardom only after eight years of cat-and-dog, night-and-day struggle which a girl goes through in learning how to become a capable actress.

Those eight years had been tough. There was no hard luck that a stage struck girl encounters that had been missed by Penny. From being left stranded by a crooked manager with the rest of a trusting company in a sticks hamlet to sinking all her savings in a community "theater" which went bust in a week, Penny, as she often said herself, had run the gamut.

And her bad luck was still with her that spring because a persistent, racking cough which not only would not yield to treatment, but actually became worse, made a succession of doctors shake their heads and reach for their microscopes. Anybody could see that they feared the worst.

Finally, George Trevelyn, M. D., as famous on Park avenue as he was in his Bowery clinic, took his stethoscope out of his ears and gazed into her beautiful, scared brown eyes.

"Nurse," he said to the quiet, uniformed young woman who stood beside Penny. "Help Miss Beldon into her clothes and give her a drink of whiskey. When you're dressed and glowing, Miss Beldon, come back here and listen to me. It won't take more than two minutes."

So Penny dressed with a great deal of apprehension and drank her drink with appreciation because her shaking legs told her she needed it. She came out of the dressing room with her lovely mouth set but trembling.

The Cast of Characters in "The Country Mouse"

PENNY BELDON, an actress compelled to give up the stage because of a throat affliction.

ABNER CONDIT, a small town editor whom Penny meets while convalescing.

EXPERT OPINION

"The news," the doctor said, "is good and bad. The good is that, organically, you are as healthy as Jack Dempsey was the day he fought Jess Willard. The bad is that you're tired. You've been working too hard. The fatigue has generated some poison. It has settled in your bronchial tubes. You've got to quit working and rest for three or four months. Get away somewhere and play."

"But I can't, doctor!" she wailed. "What will become of the play?"

"I'm not diagnosing the play," the doctor pointed out. "I saw 'The Dice Cup.' It's a bang-up show. I saw you, and you're run down. My word is final. Get out of the play and go away for a while."

So that was how Penny happened to be in Harrodsville, a beautiful little hamlet in the finger-lake region of New York State, on a hot July day. She wasn't in the hamlet, really. She was in a little sailboat, stretched out along the gunwale. At the tiller sat a bronzed young man in his thirties, who answered to the name of Abner Condit. He was smoking a pipe and looking at Penny with a great deal of appreciation.

"You've picked up wonderfully in a month, Miss Beldon," he said, and stared out over the lake at a fleet of canoes about a half mile away.

"Yes," she agreed, "I certainly am glad— The doctor says I will be well enough in August to go back to Broadway and look around for a play."

"I know," Abner said. "I don't care so much for that."

Penny looked at him quickly and looked as quickly away. Abner disturbed her. She had met him two months ago as soon as she arrived in Harrodsville. He was the proprietor, editor, publisher and star reporter of the Harrodsville Gazette, an eight-page weekly that differed from other weeklies of this class in that it carried no "boiler plate" or made-up matter. Everything printed in the Gazette was strictly home made and local.

Sometimes Penny was very proud of Abner and at other times she was disgusted with him. He was a very smart man. He could have made good on Information Please with no effort at all. The things he knew, even about plays. But in spite of his erudition, he was a country mouse. He disliked cities. He preferred to stay buried in this little town and support himself fairly well with his two-by-four paper.

A GIRL IN LOVE

It was the greatest shock of her life when Penny discovered she was in love with Abner. She straightway called her emotions Benedict Arnolds and refused to listen or feel them. But sometimes this was difficult. When they became particularly difficult, she got into an argument with Abner about coming down to the city and making good there. They were difficult now as he looked at him. So she went into her argument.

"Why won't you come down to New York and live there?" she asked a little shrilly.

"Why don't you come and live here?" Abner asked her calmly.

"Because I'm an actress," she told him, "I starred on Broadway until my darn bronchial tubes went back on me. My life is the theater. I would never be happy here. I would die, if I had to stay away from the stage."

"Couldn't you organize a sort of little theater here?" he asked diffidently. "I understand you can get the best plays for little or nothing. There are a lot of stagestruck kids here. You could put on plays and make a little money. Not much. But I don't make much either. Money isn't everything. Its just sort of a nuisance."

"You're the nuisance!" Penny told him, outraged. "Why should I act here when I can act on Broadway?"

"Well, we're right back where we started from," Abner said resigned. "You and I just go round in circles."

"Abner," she said suddenly, "why don't you write a play? Write a play like 'The Dice Cup.' Maybe it will be a hit. If the theater once gets hold of you, it will never let you go. Wouldn't you love to be a successful playwright? Like Wyeth Strong, who wrote 'The Dice Cup,' for instance."

"Have you met him?" Abner asked.

"No," she told him, "nobody has. He is very mysterious. Nobody on Broadway knows anything about him. They say he is a small town man who despises cities."

"Well," grinned Abner, "if I was like him, I'd stay right here and be successful. I've written a play or two. Everybody has. But I never got the urge to go to New York to live."

Penny could have told him that the reason he didn't want to go to New York to live was because he had never had success there. If the plays he had written had been produced, he'd go to Broadway, all right. And he'd stay there. But what was the use of talking? She couldn't change him. Besides, she forgot her argument because Abner was talking.

"Penny," he was saying, "you don't know how sorry I am that you belong in the city and I in the country. It hashes things up pretty badly. If both of liked either the city or the country, I'd tell you something. But we don't. So I won't."

She had an idea of what he would have said. For a moment, she was tempted to make him say it. Her Benedict Arnolds were running wild, but she knew as well as he did that it wouldn't do any good. It would only cause both of them to be more unhappy than they now were.

When they got back to town, Penny found a bulky package which had been sent to her by Brock Lennister, the producer. It was another play, "The Love of Pamela," by Wyeth Strong, author of "The Dice Cup." "Mr. Strong in submitting this play to me suggests you for the leading character, Pamela Warburton. Lennister had written, "He thinks you are the greatest young American actress. I like the play. I hope you do, too. I am going to produce it."

She sat right down and read the play. It was better than "The Dice Cup" and Pamela was gorgeous. In his description of the character, Wyeth Strong might have been describing Penny Beldon. It was herself to the life. She finished the manucript about 10 o'clock and walked down to The Gazette office where Abner was getting out the paper. He was all through and sitting in his crowded, dirty office smoking a pipe. She said:

"Abner, I'm going away next month. Wyeth Strong has a new play 'The Love of Pamela.' He has asked Mr. Lennister to cast me in the title role. The play is wonderful."

"That's fine," Abner said in a blurred voice, "I'll be sorry to see you go. Penny. I'll hate to."

"Why?" Penny said, her Benedict Arnolds running wild.

"Because," Abner suddenly got up. "I love you. I've loved you since I set eyes on you. I—" But he didn't say any more because Penny, somehow, had gotten into his arms.

"Oh, Darling!" she murmured, "Isn't this wonderful? Isn't this awful! Abner, couldn't we get married now. We'd have a month together. Then I'd go down to New York. Maybe you could come down now and then and visit me. When the play has had its run, I'll come back here. I'll always come back here to you. Oh, Abner, I love you so!"

"We'll get married, all right," Abner agreed, "but the rest of your program doesn't sound so good." Penny's heart contracted with dread. He was going to insist that she stay here with him. But she wouldn't. She couldn't; Acting was her life and "The Love of Pamela" was a great play. "I'd better come down to New York with you. We'll live there."

"Wonderful, darling!" Penny praised. And then a thought struck her. "But how do you plan to live? What will you do? Newspaper work?"

"No," he grinned: "I'll live on the proceeds of my plays, Penny. Do you know who I am? I'm Wyeth Strong. It's an alias I took because I don't believe my own name, Abner Condit, would look good in lights. It's too homespun."

THE END.

Shall She Buy The Tickets?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Will you please tell me if it is correct to pay for the tickets when inviting a boy friend to a moonlight sail? This is a regular excursion and dance.

We've been told that it is incorrect to buy tickets for any affair except school proms and dances, when you do the asking.

A CONSTANT READER.

Unless the "sail" is intended for some charity or cause in which you are interested, it would be a little unusual for a girl to buy excursion tickets and invite a man. However, some young ladies have been known to buy the tickets first and then say casually: "I have a couple of tickets for a sail, would you care to go?"

LOEW'S 'HOWARDS OF VIRGINIA' PROVES STIRRING FILM

Revolutionary Story Well Told

By PEGGY DOYLE

Frank Lloyd's magnificent production of "The Howards of Virginia," now focussing the attention of State and Orpheum audiences on events leading up to and through the Revolutionary War, is a timely reminder of things that have made America the most envied of nations.

The Stamp Act riots and the Boston Tea Party sequences are overlong in this story that stems from the romance of Cary Grant and Martha Scott, handsome, stalwart backwoodsman and lovely daughter of a prosperous Tory from Williamsburg, Va.

Miss Scott, whose youthful heroine greatly added to the beauty of both the stage and screen versions of "Our Town," performs a rather unsympathetic screen assignment with laudable understanding and charm. Grant, effective in the more intimate sequences, seemed a bit uncomfortable in his unaccustomed dramatic role. Sir Cedric Hardwicke's implacable Tory brother to Martha Scott's Jane Peyton Howard is a thoughtfully achieved characterization.

The two, representing such conflicting social backgrounds, marry against the opposition of the young woman's brother and guardian, and make a new home for themselves in the wilderness of Albemarle County. They are busy and happy. Three children are born to them. The young husband and father goes into politics, becomes involved in the rising rebellion. As a backwoods member of the Virginia House of Burgesses, he is fired by Patrick Henry's rabble-rousing oratory and Thomas Jefferson's quiet logic.

War comes and, adamant to his wife's ardent pleas to stay with his family, he goes off to fight for American independence.

Ultimately, peace comes to them as well as to the young America for which he has fought so passionately. Their personal conflict, it must be admitted, is far more absorbing than the heroic political conflict which has principally concerned Lloyd.

MGM's "Dulcy," second feature at Loew's provides a field day for comedienne Ann Sothern.

PAULETTE GODDARD, who will be seen in "The Great Dictator," coming Thursday to Loew's State and Orpheum.

Plenty of Fun, Music at Keith's

'Too Many Girls' Joins Hits

By JOYCE DANA

It's three cheers and a couple of tigers for dear old Pottawatomie up at the Keith Memorial, where George Abbott's "Too Many Girls" brings fun and football out on the campus where the cacti grow. The freshmen will toss their beanies in the air for this one, and it wouldn't be surprising if a few ageing grads went to town for this reminiscent slice of long, long ago.

There's a neat and not too obtrusive little plot as a framework for songs and dances, with Lucille Ball as the lucky girl whose millionaire dad picks four All-America football heroes for her bodyguards. Lucille thinks she's in love with Douglas Walton, author, with a ranch in New Mexico. That's why Lucille wants to learn her calculus at Pottawatomie.

But it's the Princeton lad who finally wins the toss, the big game and the girl. He's Richard Carlson, and you've never seen a more lovesick swain. There's an anti-romance clause in his contract, but Lucille won't let that stop him. They're a handsome couple, too, but for all that, the honors will go to some of the original cast who cross the Hollywood goal line. Eddie Bracken is, to quote him, "sort of attractive in a dynamic way." The lad is that rare Hollywood bird—NO glamour boy. But he's plenty funny and makes every gag score.

Definitely on the glamour side, if the fan mags and columnists have the story, is the Cuban heartthrob, Desi Arnaz, another of the four horsemen. Desi does his famous drum dance, which goes on and on. And he sings, too. Ann Miller, from George White's Scandals, taps like mad, and Frances Langford makes those Rodgers and Hart songs like "I Didn't Know What Time It Was" and "Love Never Went to College" sound even better. Hal LeRoy is another fast stepper, and cute little Libby Bennet turns on her honey-chile charms with no holds barred.

It's frivolous, fast and just what the younger generation ought to go for.

"Baby Sandy Gets Her Man," with the fire and police departments all snarled up, is also on the Keith screen, plus the latest edition of "Information Please."

Blackstone Mystifies RKO Boston Audiences

By DON WARD

It's a good trick if you can do it, and Blackstone is the boy who can. With his show of 1001 wonders at the Keith-Boston, you'll be punch drunk trying to figure out where all the pretty little girls come from, where the canary birds go and how that man can whip up a Lily Dache hat with a flip of the wrist and a couple of pieces of crepe paper.

The star magician, who's some-thing of a humorist, too, by the way, saws a woman in half again. This time there aren't any con-cealing drapes, or boxes and the electric buzz saw screeches even louder than the susceptible front row customers. He makes a horse disappear before you can say "whoa," and such a nice horse, who can do almost as many tricks as his master. The Hindu rope trick is right in Boston now, and just as mystifying as it was in Rangoon. Put your thinking cap on for that one, and stay awake nights!

There are the prettiest girls in the loveliest costumes all over the place, with one luscious blonde get-ting herself suspended in mid-air (they pass hoops around so you'll know there's not a wire in miles). Another charmer gets telescoped through and through with electric light bulbs.

There are two new films on the K-B screen, headed by "Queen of the Yukon," with Charles Bickford and Irene Rich. The companion picture is "Marked Men," featuring Warren Hull and Isabel Jewell.

Dorothy Lamour Scores New Hit

By DON WARD

"Moon Over Burma," which takes the top spot on Paramount and Fenway screens, transports Doro-thy Lamour from the South Seas to the heart of India. And al-though they don't apparently wear sarongs in Rangoon, it's a spot for romance, just the same, and our Dotty has Robert (Smiles) Preston and Preston Foster as rivals for her still revealing charms.

The Lamour appeals as a stranded American night club entertainer. She isn't the only hazard around, either. For once Robert takes her back to the camp where he and Foster are engaged in logging oper-ations, there are native uprisings, forest fires and a dangerous log jam in the river gorge, to be hero-ically overcome before love tri-umphs and Dotty gets her man.

Albert Basserman, who has been giving such a fine account of him-self in character roles since his ex-ile to Hollywood, turns in another fine performance as the owner of the lumber camp. Miss Lamour's sultry voice is heard in the title song, and in "Mexican Magic." Doris Nolan is pretty and appealing in a small part.

One of the most impressive doc-umentary films Hollywood has turned out is "World in Flames," the other attraction on the twin screens. Starting with the boom days in 1929, it is a brilliant caval-cade of world events up to today's headlines, with authentic newsreel shots of the dictators at work, from films taken on the spot in Ger-many, Spain, Italy, Japan, Po-land, Norway and Czechoslovakia, cleverly edited and narrated.

citizen of the United States.

Although to all announced intents and purposes Zapp is solely engaged in news gathering work, his files show that he took ordres directly from the embassy in Washington as well as from consuls in New York, San Francisco and Cleveland, that he sent a "daily telegram" to the embassy; that he made a "weekly report" to the embassy, that he made weekly reports to the consulate in New York, dispatching copies of it to the foreign office in Berlin; that he visited prominent American business executives repeatedly; that he was advising a Japanese diplomatic official in Tokyo on Japanese-American policy; and that on one occasion he approached a Chilean ambassador on a proposal that Chile buy some German freighters tied up because of the war.

In addition, examination of Zapp's financial and other records show:

That he headed Transocean in the United States two years ago, the New York offices has received funds drawn by Berlin mostly on Mexican banks totaling $169,000, as against a revenue from American clients (13 German language newspapers and a number of private citizens) of less than $5000 for the same period.

That to receive transocean news from Berlin he obtained use of the short wave facilities of an American news agency (which also exchanges news with Transocean; that this agency also acted as Transocean's agent for the short wave transmission of its news from New York to Berlin and South America; and that for these services, according to Zapp's books, he paid this agency $11,896 between January, 1939, and July, 1940.

EMBASSY SUPPLIED AID

That frequently Zapp was hard-pressed for funds and made numerous appeals to the embassy in Washington; that for a time, at least, the embassy in Washington supplied Zapp with funds with which to purchase stamps to conduit his correspondence and mail the Transocean service to clients; that on direct written and mail the transocean service orders from Charge d'Aoairesd Thomsen at the embassy Zapp offered Transocean service to M. Adrien Arcand, "Fuehrer" of the Canadian National Unity party, who was jailed by Canadian officials after the war broke out, and that the embassy itself either paid out of its own funds, or collected for Transocean, fees due Transocean from the following subscribers:

New York Staatszetung, Omaha Taegliche Tribune, California Demokrat, California Staatzeitung in Los Angeles and the Deutsche Zeitung Fuer Canada in Winnipeg.

Further, Zapp's files disclose that the following consular officials collected subscriber fees for Transocean and paid them to Zapp: Fritz Wiedemann, consul general at San Francisco; Dr. Scholz in Boston and Karl Kapp, consul general at Cleveland.

35 LISTED IN BOSTON

Dr. Scholz, according to Dies committee documents, on one occasion submitted a list of 35 potential private subscribers in Boston who might be interested in receiving transocean news reports, including two members of the Harvard University faculty. Similarly Georg Krause-Wichman, vice consul general in Chicago, submitted a list of prospects for the Midwest on another occasion.

Zapp's files also discussed that Germans in the United States have their own Nazi party unit which meets regularly under the leadership of Dr. Friedhelm Draeger, vice-consul in New York.

The evidence indicates that the unit in this county consists of about 400 members, all of whom appear to be German citizens employed by Transocean, the consular service, the German library of information and the German railroads information bureau.

This particular aspect of the case does not appear, on the basis of the evidence, to greatly concern officials of this government inasmuch as the unit involves no Americans, only German nationals.

LITTER HEILS HITLER

Nevertheless, it is considered a noteworthy commentary on Nazi discipline that when one Karl Mueller, a German, applied to Zapp for a job with Transocean he bore a letter of approval not only from Johannes Borchers, the consul general in New York, but from Dr. Draeger, district party leader, as well.

However, one letter taken from Zapp's files read:

"Nov. 30, 1939.

"Dear Dr. Zapp:

"On Wednesday, Dec. 6, at 7 p. m., a number of people of the intelligence service of the Rome-Berlin Axis are meeting at my private apartment on the third floor of the house, 11 West 57th st., for a very informal dinner.

"I should be happy if you could join and I should be grateful if you could give an answer by Monday afternoon, by telephoning my office, using the number, Wickersham 2-0224.

"With kind regards. Heil Hitler!

(Signed) "Schmitz."

SCHMITZ IDENTIFIED

Dies agents identified Schmitz as Ernst Schmitz, director of the German railroads information service in New York.

Much of Zapp's correspondence shows that he was also sent throughout the United States as a lecturer. Last January he was scheduled to make a lecture before a church group, which, however, apparently advised him it could not pay his expenses. Thereupon, Zapp wrote Vice-Consul Lippert of New York, explaining his difficulty and asking the consulate to "compensate me for my travel expenses." In March, following a trip through the Midwest Zapp received the following letter from Heribert von Strempel, first secretary to the embassy in Washington:

"I should like to confirm the receipt of your report of March 11th concerning your last lecture tour, and to express to you the heartiest thanks of the embassy for the fact that you have undertaken this enlightening activity with such signal success. I have not neglected to bring your most informative report to the attention of the foreign office.

"(Signed) Von Strempel."

In addition to his "daily telegram," the correspondence also shows that Zapp makes a weekly report to Ulrich von Glenanth second secretary to the embassy.

CONFIDENT INDIANS OFF FOR HARVARD CLASH

EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1940

By JOE CASHMAN

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 25—A squad of 34 determined but rather diminutive Indians entrained for Boston today to do or die for Dartmouth against Harvard in the 47th grid clash between these traditional New England rivals in the Stadium tomorrow afternoon.

So far this season the Green gang has specialized in dying but it insists it will play the doing role against the Har-low-vards.

What's more the Blank boys apparently have sold themselves to their followers.

Dartmouth will really be in Boston town again tonight.

A larger delegation of undergraduate tooters will desert Hanover to cheer for this team, which is reeling under successive defeats at the hands of Franklin-Marshall, Columbia and Yale, than was on hand to lend encouragement to any of the clubs of the past three years, all of which invaded the Stadium undefeated.

The Dartmouth coaching staff is making no predictions, but everybody else up here in these New Hampshire hills, including the young men who'll wage the battle, unanimously predict a seventh straight win for the Green over the Crimson.

GREEN LOOKS BETTER

There's no logical reason for this optimism.

The only plausible explanation for this attitude is that they're thinking of past H-D battles and counting on some Indian or other playing away over his head and routing the Crimson almost single-handedly.

Each of the Green's wins over the Crimson the past six falls could be traced to an individual Indian running wild, unexpectedly or otherwise.

TRIUMPH OF INDIVIDUALS

In 1931 it was Johnny Handrahan, now a member of the Dartmouth coaching staff. The next season it was Pop Nairne. In '36 it was Bob MacLeod, in '37 Bill Hutchinson, in '38 MacLeod again and last year it was Hutchinson once more.

Yes, precedent is in favor of the Dartmouth optimists, but nothing else.

If any of the Dartmouth ball toters turns in an all-American performance on Saturday, he'll indeed be playing miles over his head.

This doesn't mean that the Green warriors are a gang of weaklings, who'll be licked before they start.

WOULD BE TEAM VICTORY

It simply means that if Dartmouth wins, it promises to be a team victory rather than one featuring a single star.

The Indians have hard running backs in Johnny Krol, Ray Wolfe, Ted Arieo, Dale Bartholomew and Bill Wierman.

The Hanover heroes also boast of a brilliant passer in the person of Bud Kast and a pair of fine kickers in Ray Hall and Krol.

Upon the forward wall they're especially strong on the left side thanks to the presence of Bob Krieger at end, Bob O'Brien at tackle and Capt. Lou Young at guard, and they're getting better on the right side.

Lineup shifts have been made promoting Dan Dacey, Monty Winship and Johnny Krol to first-string tackle, guard and half-back, respectively; new plays have been devised and practiced and all hands have been thoroughly drilled on pass defense.

The Green mentors are confident their charges will succeed in holding the Harvards in check fairly well on the ground.

It's the Crimson air attack that worries Earl Blank and his aides. Franklin-Marshall, Columbia and Yale all passed the Indians dizzy, and none of those rivals is regarded as strong in the ozone as is the Crimson.

Harlow Loosens Defense In Favor of Air Offense

By BILL GRIMES

Since he took over his head coachship at Cambridge in '35 Dick Harlow has been the victim of numerous nightmares, during the weeks preceding the annual Harvard-Dartmouth jousts.

Bob MacLeod and Bill Hutchinson, in the main, were responsible for Harlow's nocturnal disturbances.

Night after night, Dick's sleep was broken by dreams in which he saw MacLeod and Hutchinson shake themselves loose for touchdown runs. And, come Saturday, MacLeod and Hutchinson proved conclusively to the Harvard mentor that dreams can, and frequently do, come true.

Dick Harlow is sleeping better this week.

The Harvard scouts, who have charted every play that the Indians of the North have put on this season, have included in their reports that to the best of their knowledge and belief, there are no Bob MacLeods or Bill Hutchinsons on the Big Green squad that will come to the Harvard Stadium tomorrow.

Therefore, it is very probable that rangy Jack Morgan, a sophomore from Covina, Cal., will start at right end for Harvard, in lieu of Joe Koufman, former Boston Latin School star.

LACKS CLIMAX RUNNER

Due to a shortage of manpower, Harlow has been obliged to make many drastic changes weekly in his first varsity. After starting the Amherst game at right guard, Koufman was shifted back to his old berth at right end, in order to bolster the Crimson defense for Tom Harmon.

Early in the week of the Army game, Harlow was informed that Hank Mazur, another great climax runner, would positively play against the Crimson. So Koufman was a hold-over as a right end, where he did a fine job blocking and defensively but left something to be desired as a pass receiver.

After verifying his scouts' claims that Dartmouth will be without a climax runner on Saturday, Harlow promoted Morgan to the first varsity and the big Californian was assigned to Koufman's right flank berth.

Morgan was the first substitute right end when Harvard opened the season against Amherst. He was battling Don Forte for the job and lost some ground when his rival completed a pass thrown by Don McNicol for the first Harvard touchdown late in the third quarter.

MORGAN FINE PASS RECEIVER

Like Forte and McNicol, Morgan is a sophomore but he's rated as one of the best pass receivers on the varsity squad, and the looks the part, for he stands a couple of inches over six feet and is a track man to boot.

So, because Dartmouth hasn't a MacLeod or a Hutchinson or both to haunt him, Harlow is able to gamble with his defense, against running plays, in order to broaden the scope of the Crimson aerial attacks.

Harvard's chances of popping up with a victory over the Big Green are further enhanced by the return of McNicol to active service.

McNicol is by far the best passer that Dick Harlow has at his beck and call, Charlie Spreyer performed very capably against Army but he doesn't rate with McNicol. Then, too, McNicol is a good ball carrier, not over fast but possessing a good leg drive and knows the answers to many ball carrying tricks, which are still Greek to most of his more experienced teammates.

Other than that Morgan will be at right end and McNicol at half back, Harvard will start the same eleven against Dartmouth that reported for the opening kick off of the Army game.

Ex-LegionChief Backs Hearst Rifle Tourney

Endorsement of the William Randolph Hearst Citizen Marksmanship Competition being sponsored throughout New England by the Boston American-Record was given today by Daniel J. Doherty of Woburn, former national commander of the American Legion and one of the country's most prominent authorities in Legion affairs.

"Mr. Hearst is performing a signal service to the entire nation by stressing the need of adequate national defense measures at this time," said Doherty. "The William Randolph Hearst Citizen Marksmanship Competition will help us to achieve security for those things which we in America cherish so dearly."

Past Commander Doherty is one of many personages who have publicly approved the Hearst rifle shoot.

Police and law enforcement agencies and home defense organizations were quick to see the great good in public education to be accomplished through this free New England competition.

Mr. Hearst's great aim is to interest large numbers of newcomers to the proper procedure of marksmanship. He is particularly interested in attracting young boys of school age to the extent that he is incorporating as part of the senior movement a William Randolph Hearst Junior Rifle Trophy Competition which will be open to all schoolboys and juniors under 19 years of age.

Complete rules and regulations of the Junior Competition will appear in tomorrow's American-Record. Juniors are requested to be on the watch for them.

Sidekick Proves Kimbrough OK As Talent Scout

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Oct. 25 (AP)—When Jim Thomason, the Texas Aggies' fine blocking back, blossomed out this season as a ball carrier—he's picked up 9.4 yards each time he has ploughed into the line—a lot of folks were surprised, but teammate Jarring Jawn Kimbrough wasn't.

Kimbrough has been shouting for two years that Thomason "is the greatest football player in America today." Like Max Schmeling Jarring Jawn "zee zomezings" about Jim all the time.

PICK MICHIGAN, CORNELL, LIONS IN MAJOR TESTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—Scrambling down the football guessing lane where stumbles are frequent and painful but not fatal:

MICHIGAN-PENN—It ought to be Harmon vs. Reagan, but possibly a guy named Doakes will steal the play. Both teams unbeaten, untied; both power offensive machines; both vulnerable to passes. Michigan seems to have waded through much the tougher opposition, and gets the nod on that basis.

CORNELL-OHIO STATE—Ohio State, beaten in two close ones, has to win this one to salvage something out of the season. Nor have the Buckeyes forgotten how the Cornells poured it on in the second half of last year's battle. The incentive, therefore, is there but that isn't enough. Not, at any rate, in this corner's opinion, and the ballot is cast for Cornell.

ILLINOIS-NOTRE DAME—How are you going to pick against the Irish? Notre Dame.

STANFORD-SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA—Stanford, unbeaten and untied, is the season's sensation. Southern California, unbeaten but tied twice, has dropped off, but this is strictly a you-pick-'em affair. Resorting to the coin . . . Stanford.

TEXAS AGGIES-BAYLOR—Injuries have hurt the Bears, but, even if they hadn't, this vote still would go to Texas A. and M.

NORTH CAROLINA-TULANE—Their 14-14 draw a year ago was one of the season's big thrills. This one ought to be close now that Tulane has found itself. On a stab in the dark . . . Tulane.

NEBRASKA-MISSOURI — The probable payoff game in the Big Six. Paul Christman's still around, but the choice is Nebraska.

FORDHAM-ST. MARY'S—The Gaels haven't got Slip Madigan any more and it's open to doubt that they have a first-class team this year. At any rate, Fordham.

HARVARD-DARTMOUTH — No football bargain either way. Out of the hat, Harvard.

COLUMBIA-SYRACUSE — Probably very close, but Columbia has the goods and rates this vote.

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY-GEORGETOWN—The long Georgetown winning streak will go sometime, but not in this one unless all evidence fails. Georgetown.

PRINCETON-RUTGERS—A renewal of the oldest football rivalry in the country and anybody's ball game to boot. The coin falls, and says Rutgers.

YALE-NAVY—Navy to continue unbeaten, untied.

TEMPLE-PENN STATE—Tough, if not impossible, to figure. A flier on Temple.

ARMY-LAFAYETTE—Very close on paper. Timidly, Lafayette.

NORTHWESTERN-INDIANA — De Correvont's a doubtful starter, but still, Northwestern.

MINNESOTA-IOWA—No reason to look beyond Minnesota.

PURDUE-WISCONSIN — Purdue's had two weeks' rest and gets the nod.

MICHIGAN STATE-SANTA CLARA—Eenie, meenie . . . Michigan State.

Princeton, Rutgers Hit Line Tomorrow

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 25 (AP)—Football's oldest rivalry will be renewed in Palmer Stadium tomorrow when Princeton and Rutgers clash for the 36th time since the two schools played the first intercollegiate football game in 1869.

Stadium officials said the advance ticket sales indicated attendance might approximate 28,000.

Rutgers won the inital contest, played in New Brunswick under local rules, six goals to four, but the Tigers turned the tables in a return engagement a week later on their home grounds. Using their own rules, Princeton won eight goals to seven.

Since 1869 old Nassau has piled up a top-heavy victory string of 34 wins to Rutgers' two. The second scarlet success came in 1938. The game was a 20-13 thriller.

Rutgers faces tomorrow's contest undefeated, untied and unscored on in three games, but does not rule as favorite because of the minor calibre of its victims, Springfield, Lehigh and Marietta.

Howard Testimonial Grid Game Sunday

The twice-postponed testimonial game honoring Charles "Dutchy" Howard will be played Sunday at Victory Field, Watertown, with the Middlesex A. A. entertaining the Newton Redskins in a Bay State League game. The game is under the sponsorship of the Watertown Post, American Legion, and Watertown Lodge of Elks.

Auburn Banking on Kennel

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 25 (AP)—Word is around that Auburn has a 160-pound freshman back in Tommy Kennel who is going to show 'em all some speed when he gets promoted next year. And Coach Johnny Meagher tells the story of how Tommy, who hails from Elgin, Ill., happened to land on the Tigers' campus.

It seems when Meagher was a lot younger he used to carry papers for Tommy's father. So, when Tommy was ready for college a year ago, Meagher invited him down. He accepted.

Auburn plays Boston College Nov. 23.

AUSTEN LAKE

Harvard-Dartmouth Ices Football Game

HARVARD-DARTMOUTH—Two thwarted, exasperated teams in a battle of frustration. The Green has been a little on the salad side this season but coming nearer to its potential peak after an aerial flop in the final minute of the Yale game. Neither team has won a major contest and both are moving nowhere but toward December. Still this is bound ot be one of the bitterest battles in the East and Harlow's best chance to beat the Green since taking up his tenure at Cambridge. A hard swallow for Harvard. A lean guess for Dartmouth.

AUSTEN LAKE

Boston College-St. Anselm's—The brawny mastodon of the East against the erstwhile infant Hercules of N. E. football. The herculean myth tells us that while Herc was still an infant in swaddlings, Juno, the Greeks' head witch, slipped a couple of boa-constrictors into his crib. The kid, unterrified, snatched the snakes by the gullet and K. O.ed them while his sissy brother, Iphiclus, roused the neighborhood with soprano shrieks. A long scream for S. A., a plea for mercy to B. C.

PENN-MICHIGAN—Two of the few unbeaten, untied teams of the country, colliding for National recognition. Penn has scored a total of 148 points in three games (Maryland, Yale and Princeton) while Michigan was rolling up 116 in four contests (California, Michigan State, Harvard and Illinois). The blue-ribbon, banner attraction of mid-season with Penn's Francis Xavier Reagan spotlighted against Michigan's Tom Harmon for All-America honors. One firm surmise for Michigan via the forward pass route, Penn's blind spot.

WILLIAMS-TUFTS—Several years ago ex President Tyler Dennett made a curious crack about Williams being overrun by "nice boys," yet History shows that in 1885, Williams was one of the football colleges which refused Harvard's attempt to stop slugging in football. Under the then-existing code, players who slugged opponents with their fists were warned three times before being expelled from the contest. Harvard's faculty abolished football, pro tempore, when its demand for instant banishment of all sluggers was refused. Williams, among others, said No! They weren't so nice in those days. One bust in the puss for Tufts, a reprimand for the Wilies.

Northeastern-Upsala - N. E. is Boston's come-lateliest college eleven which makes up in enthusiasm what it lacks in muscle. Upsala, a New Jersey institution, is a name compounded of two words. "Up," denoting movement contrary to the laws of gravity and the Bulgarian noun, "sala" meaning nozzle or spout. Hence up the spout. One mild conjecture for N. E.

Yale-Navy — The second biggest physical team in the East (Georgetown is heavier), Navy has squeezed past W. & M., Cincinnati and Princeton. A cumberstone, sluggish eleven meets the Ivy's "Sleeper." Yale snapped out of its somnambulance last week and should whip the muscle-wealthy but foot-anchored Navy.

Cornell-Ohio State—When Ezra Cornell founded his hilltop University in '65, he said, "Let there be an institution where any person can find superior learning on any subject." The instruction was good under Gilmour Dobie's football professorship but the learning was poor. Hence Carl Snavely was called from North Carolina in '36, and some husky scholars entered coincidentally with his arrival. The learning picked up immediately and has improved to such a degree that Cornell has mangled the opposition without a defeat for two years. Otte transparent guess for Cornell.

BROWN-HOLY CROSS—H. C. rejuvenated by victories over Carnegie Tech and N. Y. U. after taking an embarrassing beating from Louisiana's standing army, faces a slightly-more-than-standard Brown. Yet only a Bruin optimist is willing to wager that the speed-and-spirit engendered by Tuss McLaughry can lick Holy Cross.

Lukachik, Dubzinski Lead B. C. Against Scrappy St. Anselm

Boston College's Golden Eagle, taking nothing for granted, tapered off today for its clash with Cleo O'Donnell's little St. Anselm Hawk tomorrow afternoon at Alumni Field.

"I'll start my strongest eleven tomorrow," said Head Coach Frank Leahy between coughs this morning, for the Eagle mentor is suffering a severe attack of grippe.

Leahy isn't planning to lay it on but in the Eagle coach's own words "no team is a breather until the fact has been proven. Though they have lost three games I respect the Hawks, and realizing that they have been pointing for us I lok for trouble."

It's no secret St. Anself has been pointing for Boston College. If the Hawks were to upset the Eagles, O'Donnell and his scrappy little band would be the heroes of the collegiate grid world.

Alex Lukachik, the 202-pound Eagle end who dropped to the second team last week, bounces right back to his starting assignment when Coach Frank Leahy named him as co-captain with Walt Dubzinski, the alternate center, for the game.

With the selection of Lukachik and Duhzinski, Leahy has now given nine of the 16 seniors on the squad the honor of being leader-for-a-day.

For the six remaining seniors Leahy still has four games left on the schedule, Manhattan, Boston University, Georgetown and Auburn. The fifth game on the list, Holy Cross, is especially reserved for Quarterback Henry Toczylowski, who was chosen last year by his teammates.

Carrier Lost to Wesleyan

MIDDLETOWN, Ct., Oct. 25—Wesleyan's hopes of getting away to a successful start in defense of its Little Three title against Amherst received a severe setback today when it was learned that Jim McCarter, Cardinals' triple threat, definitely will not start and may not even be able to play at any time.

The loss of the injured Wesleyan triple threat just about wrecks the Cardinals offense that was built around this star who almost single handedly upset Amherst last fall.

While Wesleyan is handicapped, Amherst is at full strength. With Johnny Blood and Tom Mulroy to share offensive ball carrying duty the Lord Jeffs loom as favorites in the opening of the Little Three series.

THREE HUSKIES CARRY LOAD

Three men of all-work are included in the Northeastern varsity gridiron squad now en route to New York for a game against Upsala tomorrow afternoon at East Orange. Capt. Dean Williams, Fred Cusick and Charlie Knowles are the performers who may be key men in the Husky machine.

Since reserve centers, Russell Starck and Don Moore, are on the injured list, Capt. Williams will be ready to shift from tackle to the pivot post if Dick Grey needs relief. Williams has filled in at that position on two previous occasions this year.

He won All State honors as a center at Pawnee, Neb., high school.

Cusick, the debating star from Brighton, who will be used at either guard or tackle, while Knowles, well built Roxbury Memorial graduate, can be used at either end or blocking back.

Coach Jimmy Dunn has made no shifts in the lineup which started against Bates last Saturday. Ronnie Tubbs, Ed Barry, Phil Sheridan and Joe Diss will be the opening backfield, while the line has Ed Macfarland and Onni Waltonen at ends, Ed Johnson and Capt. Williams at tackles, Charlie Abend and Len Erickson at guards and Grey at center.

GEORGE FREEMAN of the Irish-American A. A. is as much interested in the football battle between Francis Xavier Reagan, Penn's All-America halfback, and Tom Harmon of Michigan at Ann Arbor, Mich., tomorrow as the next man, but he didn't even mention the matter when he called at this office today.

Freeman centered his verbal fire on the finals in his Golden Gloves tournament that will be staged at the Arena on Monday night. This show will bring together some of the best of the New England amateur glove wielders, and is a curtain raiser for the all-America diamond belt championships that will get under way with trial bouts at the Arena on Nov. 11.

Tom Kanaly, who is Freeman's "right eye" in the promotion of amateur boxing, has furnished this pillar with thumb-nail sketches of the young men who will toss leather on Monday night. If Tom were associated with a race track, he would refer to his information as a form. It gives a perfect line on the boxers who have reached the finals. Here it is:

112 Pounds Class—John Griffin, Jr., Lawrence mill worker, has been boxing five years, former state champion, and a hard-hitting flyweight.

Tommy Luckman, 20-year-old Brockton lad, one of the best amateurs uncovered in southeastern Massachusetts in a long time—a real contender for championship honors.

Tony Peppi, 21-year-old Boston lumper, former New England A. A. A. U. and N. E. All-America champion—has been boxing two years with a record of 35 wins. Fast, clever boxer and hits like a heavyweight.

George Katsekas, 22-year-old Manchester, N. H., laborer, has only been boxing about six months and has hit the wire (a la Rockingham) a winner seven times.

118 Pounds Class—Eddie DeAngeles, 23-year-old Revere rubber worker, 1940 Massachusetts state and New England A. A. A. U. 112-pound champion, seeking titles in the bantamweight class. Has been boxing two years and a half and has 50 wins.

Joe Landry, 20-year-old Gardner laborer, and the 1940 New England A. A. A. U. junior flyweight champion, has been boxing only one year with a record of 20 victories.

Paul Bangs, 19-year-old Cambridge bricklayer, has nine victories in four months of ring warfare.

Paul Morello, 26-year-old Haverhill shoe worker, has done most of his boxing as a flyweight and considered one of the best boys in New England.

126 Pounds Class—Al Sforza, 19-year-old Boston laborer, has a record of 18 victories in a row during the last four months' competition. Curly-headed Italian boy who seems headed for greater honors in the sport of boxing. Packs plenty of punching power in both hands.

Steve Kronis, 18-year-old South Boston puncher, works as truck helper, 1940 Massachusetts state champion with a record of 21 victories in 5 months of competition.

Frank Toscano, 18-year-old Boston chauffeur, has been boxing only one month, and has rung up four victories over the k. o. route.

Jackie Heard, 25-year-old Boston Negro flash, hails from Georgia—considered one of the best boys in the weight in New England.

135-Pounds Class—Bob McCabe, 18-year-old Salvation Army cook in the Sharon camp. Has been boxing only a few months and has nine victories in nine fights for a 100 per cent average. Strong, rugged, hard-hitting lad with both dukes, and bound to go places in the sport.

Sam DiVincenzo, 25-year-old Haverhill shoe worker, has been boxing four years with a record of 180 victories.

George H. Beckles, 23-year-old Cambridge porter, hailing from Panama, N. E. and Eastern All-America champion last year—has been boxing two years and has a record of 50 victories.

Stephen Bomal, Lowell mill worker, in first year of competition—good boxer and stiff puncher and always keeping on top of an opponent, never letting him get set.

147 Pounds Class—Mike Cascio, 21-year-old Boston laborer, has been boxing one year and a half, ringing up 15 wins.

Eugene Boulden, 21-year-old Providence, R. I., laborer, has been boxing three years—R. I. state champion and one of the best amateur welterweights in New England.

Fred Earle, 20-year-old Sagamore laborer, has been boxing two years, terrific puncher, winning most fights via k. o. route.

Dave Andrews, 19-year-old Lowell laborer, has been boxing but one year, 1940 New England junior champion—figures to take place of Jimmy Mulligan, also from Lowell, as New England's leading 147-pounder of the year.

160 Pounds Class—Sol Ceasrio, 20-year-old Boston boy, has been boxing eight months with a record of 30 victories. Exceptionally hard hitter.

Jack Kearney, 20-year-old Brookline youngster, has been boxing one year—is a great crowd pleaser, being a clever boxer and a stiff puncher.

Joe Stasio, 19-year-old Revere artist, has been boxing only one month, but certainly knows what it is all about and can take care of himself in any company.

Tommy Hill, 22-year-old Lowell dyehouse worker, has been boxing for two years with 50 first place wins to his credit.. Hits like the kick of a mule.

175 Pounds Class—Tommy Sullivan, 19-year-old South Boston fish pier worker—Massachusetts state champion—has had 41 bouts in two years, most of them ending with a knockout. His idol is the "Boston Strong Boy"—the one and only John L. Sullivan.

James Griffin, 25-year-old Lawrence truck driver, has had 100 wins in his five years of ring competition. Former middleweight star.

William Fitzpatrick, 20-year-old Arlington aspirant for championship honors.

Alfred Bellevue, 19-year-old Cambridge laborer—in first year of competition has had no difficulty in polishing off all opposition.

Heavyweight Class—John Pretzie 19-year-old Back Bay youngster, who has been boxing only 10 months, has 21 victories, 19 of them ending via k. o. Weighs 190 pounds and is a terrific body puncher.

60 MICHIGAN, PENN OUTSTANDING GRID GAME OF SEASON

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 25 (AP) - Michigan has waited seven long years for a return to football heights, so the unbeaten Wolverines can be expected to come out swinging here tomorrow against Pennsylvania's touchdown-mad eleven.

Since 1933, when Harry Newman hitched Michigan to the Western Conference championship, the Wolverines have struck bottom with four disastrous seasons and have bounced back under H. O. (Fritz) Crisler for two successful ones.

But in 1938 Michigan's only defeat, a 7-to-6 setback at the hands of Minnesota, came on the third Saturday of the season. Last year the Wolverines rolled unbeaten into their November schedule and then were tripped in succession by Illinois and the Gophers.

NEAR NATIONAL HONORS

This time the "Champions of the West," in song and legend, are at the threshold of new national gridiron honors against the threat of the undefeated Quakers, who have scored 147 points in three games and have compiled the season's best defensive record against rushing.

Michigan players, if not their fans, are impressed by Penn's vaunted power. From the spectator standpoint there will be 30,000 vacant seats in the huge concrete bowl even with the added attraction of the individual duel between All-America Tom Harmon and Frank Reagan.

Up to this week the cash customers have regarded it as just another Penn-Michigan game and the last-minute scramble for tickets probably will not boost attendance over 55,000.

If there were only one spectator in the stands, however, he would be Fielding H. (Hurry Up) Yost, Michigan's 69-year-old athletic director, to whom Wolverine players have dedicated this season.

BOYS FOR YOST

Yost is as fond of this team as he was, perhaps, of Willie Heston and the point-a-minute boys of bygone days. Before a cleat was dug into turf this fall the players, under Capt. Forest Evashevski, pledged to make Yost's last year at Michigan "one he'll never forget."

That's the spirit that Michigan will carry onto the field against Pennsylvania.

Helmet Stolen, Gridman Conked After Game

BOULDER, Col., Oct. 25 (AP)—Dick Bridenbaugh, Colorado guard, rubs the lump on his head and admits it was a dirty trick to play on him. During the general fuss on the field following the Colorado State game last week, some one grabbed his helmet. And what's more, just as the fellow started running off with the headpiece, someone else reached over and "hit me with a blunt instrument," Bridenbaugh says.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—Four years ago, when Fordham and the "Seven-Blocks-of-Granite" line were being touted for the Rose Bowl, they were getting all kinds of ballyhoo from coast to coast. This year they have a more well-rounded team than that one and they've won four tough tussles. Yet no one outside of New York is giving them a rumble, and even the New York folks aren't going around singing songs about 'em.

Snavely Undecided On Left Side of Line

Snavely said it was still a toss-up between Kirk Hershey and Jim Schmuck for the end post and between Fred West and Paul Blasko for the tackle position.

Unbeaten Peabody Invades Chelsea

By SAM BROGNA

Coach Bill Seeglitz will lead his state championship bound Peabody eleven tonight to the Chelsea Memorial Stadium where it will endeavor to extend its remarkable win record which has alrady reached five, at the expense of the Red Devils.

Invading this part of Boston for the first time this season, the Tanners will display their wares before the Chelsea populace and, providing good weather is available, a gathering, even greater than the opening night's tilt with Saugus High, is expected to be on hand.

BOTH CLAIMED TITLE IN '38

Two years ago, both Chelsea and Peabody came up with undefeated slates and, at the close of the season, each claimed the state title. This year, the situation is somewhat different, only on the part of Chelsea.

After a dismal campaign following the '38 season, Seeglitz once again has a potential championship outfit. On the other hand, the Red Devils have disappointed a bit this as well as last year.

To date Peabody has about the best record of any schoolboy eleven in the state. They have played five games, four of which were under the lamps, and won each one with nary a single point registered against them.

LOST THREE, TIED TWO

Coach Charlie McCarthy, experiencing his first season as a head coach, has been enjoying everything but a good campaign. After the 13-to-7 upset win over Saugus, his Red Devils have found the going a bit rough, injuries being the main cause.

Since this victory they have been unable to break into the win column, dropping three and tieing two.

Gardner, fresh from its 13 to 0 win over Fitchburg, will journey to Newburyport to battle Tom O'Donnell's Clippers. The home towners are slight underdogs since it has been whispered that this upstate eleven is big, fast and has plenty of scoring punch. The game is also listed for tonight.

* * *

The afternoon games find English high visiting Groton for the first of its two outside games; Public Latin and Dorchester entertaining each other in a single contest at National League Field; Marionopolis go to St. John's Prep and a host of private school and freshmen meetings.

SABA PILOTS H.C. AT BROWN

WORCESTER, Oct. 25—Joe Sheeketski sent his A and B teams through a light signal drill today in final tuneup for the Brown game at Providence tomorrow.

Still minus captain and star tackle Jack Kellar and halfback Tommy Sullivan, the Crusaders expect a tough session tomorrow, though they're favored.

Frank Saba, husky back, will run the team, with Joe Osmanski in one of the halfback spots. The other starting backfield roles will be played by Johnny Bezemes or Andy Natowich, and Ed Fysikski or Johnny Grigas.

The line will have Walter Roberts and either Adam Kretowicz or Ed Murphy at ends, Frank Gaziano and Jack Fitzgerald tackles, Ray Monaco and Mal McGarry or Steve Conroy guards, and Tom Lynch center.

Brown's performances this season haven't been startling but the Bruins always play one of their best games against Holy Cross. With the latter below par through injuries, Brown has a chance to score an upset and so Holy Cross will try to score early and take no chances.

Gaels Confident They'll Beat Rams

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (INS)—Although the odds were heavily against them, St. Mary's Galloping Gaels today felt confident they would surprise Fordham's undefeated Rams tomorrow.

Red Strader, who replaced Slip Madigan as head coach of the Californians, was depending on a tricky offense and the speed of his boys to provide an upset.

Meantime, Coach Jimmy Crowley sent the Rams through a brief workout today following a strenuous Thursday scrimmage.

Hurdles King Grid Bust, But He'll Stick It Out

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 25 (AP)—No. 33 sits on the Rice bench each Saturday, dejectedly dangling a pair of the world's fastest legs.

Coach Jess Neely beckons substitutes, streams them into the game.

But No. 33, watching the big clock tick off the minutes, still warms the hard wooden plank.

At game's end, he trudges back to the clubhouse, pondering fate's mysterious ways.

No. 33 is Freddy Wolcott, whose flying feet made him the greatest hurdler in track history.

THROUGH WITH TRACK

The speed which tagged him "the blond blur" is wasted on the bench, it takes more than track trophies to make a football player.

To Freddy Wolcott's eternal credit, his spirit remains unquenched.

"I'm staying out for practice if I never get into another game."

Against weak Centenary, Wolcott was not used; against Louisiana State, he played just long enough to carry the ball twice. He made four yards on one try, fumbled the next.

Four months ago Wolcott closed out his collegiate track career in his usual record burning style.

He had been too valuable to place on the hazardous gridiron, but with his track eligibility worn out, Wolcott turned to one of his first loves—football.

HE CAN TAKE IT

He didn't have to play. For the sake of a single season's competition, he was risking injury.

But Freddy, a star halfback in high school, wanted to slip his feet inside football gear and speed down the sidelines again.

Coach Neely said he believed he'd find plenty of use for Wolcott. But Neely changed his mind. Wolcott couldn't cut. He was an awkward ball handler; he lacked polish.

Freddy wound up training at the tail end of the list of wingbacks.

The crowd doesn't yell for Freddy any more. His name, which used to crowd the public prints, rarely gets into the papers.

But Freddy takes his lumps in sporting style.

"I'm sticking it out, anyway."

BEARS HOLD ACE UP SLEEVE ON MILWAUKEE

Advance dope has it that the Bears will pass the Milwaukee Chiefs daffy and that the Chiefs will run the Boston outfit dizzy when the two teams battle at Fenway Park next Saturday.

Trying to forecast just what is going to happen is merely guess work, for nobody knows just how good the Chiefs' pass defense will be or whether the invading backs can gain against the tough Bears line.

There is one thing certain, though, and that is the fact that the Bears are almost a cinch to pick up three points any time they stall in the vicinity of the Chiefs' goal line.

In Warren Negri, a big 205-pound guard from Virginia, the Bears have one of the greatest placement kickers since "Automatic Jack" Manders of the Chicago Bears.

Last Sunday, Negri booted one through the uprights standing on the 36 yard line against the Buffalo Indians for the first score and, in the last period, he kicked a 38 yard placement into the teeth of a tough wind from quite an angle.

This gives the Bears an added scoring threat that's apt to come in handy Sunday.

Milwaukee must win this game to stay in the running and the visitors have every intention of stopping the winning streak of the Bears which has extended to four games. The Chiefs arrived in town yesterday and are working out mornings at the Fens stadium.

SPORT-O-GRIMES

By BILL GRIMES

Col. Paul G. Krik is planning an extensive athletic program for his 101st Infantry, which will train at Camp Edwards at Bourne. For the entertainment of his doughboys, the "C. O." will arrange boxing, wrestling, badminton and squash tournaments. In all probability, the golfers in the 101st will form a winter league, for the royal and ancient game is a year round sport at Oyster Harbors, Coonamossett, Wood's Hole and Pocasset.

N. U. has a promising hurdler and high jumper in Freshman Jimmy Shanahan, who prepped at Brookline High . . . The Boston Bears are doing more to develop interest in pro football than did any of George Marshall's Redskins. With a big league franchise, the Bears would become a great box office attraction.

Most of Penn's athletes are majoring and minoring in "Physical Ed," which is a soft touch. So how can undergraduate experts juggle the facts and arrive at a conclusion which gets Cornell in the same category as the Red and Blue?

Bob Murphy, the "super" of the Boston Garden, threw a party when he was informed there'd be no more Quad meets . . . Just as soon as the weather gets too cold for golf, Joe Cronin and Frank Shellenback will head for Maine for some hunting . . . Joe Conway, sporting goods tycoon, will donate another set of those elaborate maroon and gold coats if the Boston College Eagles get a bowl bid.

Ernie Soucy, who ranked with the best ends and centers when Harvard boasted of great football elevens, is the exception that proves the rule. Although he's president of the Boston Bears, "Souc" has yet to offer a suggestion to either of his coaches, Eddie Casey or George Kenneally.

• • •

Incidentally, it was Soucy who paved the way for future public school oarsmen to win seats in the varsity shell at Harvard . . . When he went out for crew there, candidates had to be from Groton, St. Mark's, St. Paul's, Middlesex or St. George's to enter the varsity boat house . . . The "brows" gave him a great battle but "Souc" finally broke in.

• • •

University of Michigan will cash in on that Tom Harmon-Frank Reagan duel tomorrow at Ann Arbor. Frank Leahy is far more concearned over the soft spots in the B. C. schedule than he'll admit. It's a tough job keeping a club keyed up for Idaho, St. Anselm and B. U.

Servo Quits Ring for Army

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—Marty Servo, the little lightweight from Schenectady, N. Y., who has been undefeated in his two years in the ring, has put his gloves and boxing trunks in mothballs for a time—to take up a different kind of fighting.

A member of the National Guard Reserve, he is on the way to Camp McClelland in Alabama with the 105th Division.

A cousin of former Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers, Servo boxes professionally under the management of Al Weill, and is sporting a record of 35 victories and two draw decisions so far in his career.

Sports Mirror

Today a Year Ago—It was announced officially that the Cincinnati Reds played to 1,133,926 fans at home games during the 1939 season and made a $400,000 profit.

Three Years Ago—Denny Shute, United States pro golf champion, defeated Henry Picard, 1 up, in 36-hole final of Argentine match play tournament at Buenos Aires.

State of Maine Grid Series Opens

With the Governor Lewis O. Barrows Trophy as an added incentive, the 48th annual Maine state series gets under way tomorrow afternoon with Bowdoin at Colby and Bates at Maine.

Interest will focus largely on the clash at Waterville, for the winner of this series is expected to capture the championship. Oddly enough, these two teams have tied for the title in the past two years.

Bowdoin is a slight favorite because of such great backs as Bell, Bonzagni, Coombs, Martin, Dolan and Marchildon. The Polar Bears were slated for a banner year but got away to a poor start against Tufts and were tied by Williams after having the game apparently sewed up.

Colby is hard to figure. Al McCoy built his offense around his captain —Johnny Daggett who has been sidelined with a broken shoulder.

With Dagget out, the entire Mules' offense has been revamped. This may result in Bowdoin being caught off guard or it may boomerang due to the short time the Mules have had to perfect their new offense.

Bates and Maine shape up evenly. Both have been inconsistent all fall and if each comes up with a top performance tomorrow it should be quite a game.

Maine gets the edge with the game at Orono. In the Maine series the university is almost unbeatable at home. In fact Bowdoin hasn't been able to turn the trick at Orono but once in 40 years and Bates has not had much better luck.

Al Jaretzki, a senior from N. Y. C., has been elected captain of the Harvard jayvees. The Crimson and Green scrubs meet at 2:30 this p. m. at Soldier's Field in their annual dog fight.

The "Cornell Daily Sun" will answer the "Crimson" charges that the Big Red is a "pro" outfit and that Coach Carl Snavely is responsible for the subsidization policies

RULES GOVERNING THE FOOTBALL CONTEST

NO. 5

The object of the Daily Record-American Football Contest is to select winners of twenty collegiate football games to be played each Saturday. Anyone may enter the contest excepting employes of the Record-American and their families.

The selections are listed on the chart here which is ready to be filled out by the contestant. Simply place an (X) in the space nearest the name of the team you think will win, or if you predict a tie game place the letter (T) in the spaces nearest the names of the tying teams.

Calculate the AVERAGE score of all competing teams, except those for which you predict a tie score. Write winners' and losers' average score in space provided in coupon. Do not write individual scores in spaces or on the coupon. Indicate average scores only by adding scores of all teams and then divide the total by the number of teams competing.

Only ONE solution may be entered by a contestant. All entries must be in the office of the Record-American not later than Midnight Friday, the day before the games.

You need not buy a copy of the Record or American to enter this contest. Tracings of the contest form may be made from copies in the public library or in the Record-American office. Such entries will be acceptable and given equal consideration with those clipped from these newspapers.

A prize of $100.00 will be awarded the person whose entries contain all selections correct. If more than one person submits perfect solutions, $100.00 will be awarded the lucky contestant whose average score tabulations most nearly match with actual average scores of the games. If no perfect list of solutions is entered $50.00 will be awarded to the contestant having the nearest number of selections correct and should two or more contestants tie for this prize the lucky contestant submitting the most nearly correct average scores will receive the award. A prize of $25.00 will be awarded the person submitting the second largest number of correct solutions and should two or more contestants tie for this prize, lucky contestant submitting the most nearly correct average scores will receive the prize. Twenty-five awards of $3.00 each will be given the twenty-five contestants whose entries contain in succession, the next largest number of correct solutions and whose average scores most nearly match the actual scores of the games.

Winners of each week's contest will be announced on the Saturday following the games. The decision of the judges in all cases shall be final.

Mail all entries to the Record-American Football Contest Editor, P. O. Box 1987, Boston, Mass.

In the event of postponement of any of the games, such games will automatically be excluded from the contest. In the event that the planned date of any game scheduled is changed, then that game is automatically excluded.

Something Salvaged—Managing smiles despite their loss, two women residents of a London suburb emerge from their bomb blasted home . . . grateful that they could salvage the few prized possessions they carry. The young man obviously doesn't feel as cheery as the women.

Calm

When this photo was taken in the Children's Hospital, London, a Nazi air raid was actually in progress . . . but these youngsters, absorbed in the story their calm nurse is telling them, simply ignore the thunder outside.

Pickup

Perhaps accustomed to the work, the staff of a London shop delve in to salvage the stock in trade from the sidewalk where it was hurled by exploding German bombs. When it's picked up, business will resume 'as usual.'
